Additional provisions

61. The parties will adhere to the following additional provisions:

Additional Provision: The parties shall review the nesting arrangement every six months. Either party may request in writing that the parties discuss whether to continue, modify, sell, refinance, or otherwise change the arrangement. If the parties cannot agree, they shall participate in mediation before seeking court intervention.

Additional Provision: Each parent shall maintain the marital residence in a clean, safe, and reasonable condition during that parent's parenting week. Each parent shall be responsible for ordinary cleaning and household care during that parent's use of the residence.

Additional Provision: Each parent may maintain reasonable personal belongings at the marital residence in agreed storage areas. Neither parent shall access, remove, or disturb the other parent's personal belongings without permission.

Additional Provision: Neither parent shall have overnight romantic guests at the marital residence while the children are present unless otherwise agreed upon by both parents.

Additional Provision: Kelan Thomas Larkin shall pay the mortgage, utilities, and regular household expenses. Major repairs, improvements, or non-emergency expenses over $200 shall require mutual agreement in advance.

Additional Provision: If the marital residence is sold, the net proceeds after mortgage payoff, closing costs, taxes, liens, and agreed sale expenses shall be divided equally between the parties unless otherwise agreed in writing.

Additional Provision: Either party may propose to refinance and buy out the other party's interest in the marital residence. Any refinance, buyout, sale, or transfer of ownership shall require mutual written agreement or further court order.

Additional Provision: The children's clothing, school items, electronics, sports equipment, and personal belongings shall remain primarily at the marital residence unless otherwise agreed by the parents.

Additional Provision: While Kelan Thomas Larkin is paying the mortgage and household expenses, Kelan may claim any available mortgage interest, property tax, or similar residence-related tax deductions to the extent allowed by law.

Additional Provision: If the nesting arrangement becomes unworkable, either party may request mediation to determine whether the residence should be sold, refinanced, transferred, or whether a different parenting-time exchange arrangement should be implemented.

Additional Provision: Right of First Refusal: If either parent will be unavailable to care for the children for more than eight (8) consecutive hours during that parent's scheduled parent-time, that parent shall first offer the other parent the opportunity to care for the children before using other childcare. The Right of First Refusal shall not apply to school, daycare, organized activities, or care provided by grandparents.

Additional Provision: Temporary Income-Sharing and Family-Support Arrangement Subject to the remarriage provisions below, further written agreement of the parties, or further court order, the parties shall equally share their net employment income. Each party shall provide the other party with fifty percent (50%) of that party's net paycheck within two (2) business days after receipt. For purposes of this provision, "net paycheck" means employment income actually received after required taxes, required payroll withholdings, and ordinary employment deductions. Neither party shall intentionally manipulate withholdings, deductions, retirement contributions, or other payroll elections for the purpose of reducing the amount shared with the other party. This income-sharing arrangement is intended to provide mutual financial support, support the parties' shared parenting arrangement, and help maintain financial stability for the minor children while the parties continue their nesting arrangement and joint ownership of the marital residence. Effect of Remarriage "Remarriage" means a legal marriage recognized under Utah law. Engagement, dating, or cohabitation alone shall not trigger this provision unless otherwise agreed in writing by the parties or ordered by the court. If Kalie Anderson Larkin remarries, Kelan Thomas Larkin's obligation to share his net paycheck with Kalie Anderson Larkin shall terminate beginning with the first full pay period after Kalie Anderson Larkin's remarriage. Kalie Anderson Larkin shall continue to share fifty percent (50%) of her net paycheck with Kelan Thomas Larkin unless otherwise agreed in writing by the parties or ordered by the court. If Kelan Thomas Larkin remarries, Kalie Anderson Larkin's obligation to share her net paycheck with Kelan Thomas Larkin shall terminate beginning with the first full pay period after Kelan Thomas Larkin's remarriage. Kelan Thomas Larkin shall continue to share fifty percent (50%) of his net paycheck with Kalie Anderson Larkin unless otherwise agreed in writing by the parties or ordered by the court. If both parties remarry, neither party shall be required to share net paycheck income with the other beginning with the first full pay period after the later remarriage, unless otherwise agreed in writing by the parties or ordered by the court. House and Nesting Arrangement After Remarriage Upon the remarriage of either party, the parties shall review the continued joint ownership and use of the marital residence. Within thirty (30) days after either party's remarriage, the parties shall meet and confer in good faith regarding whether to continue the nesting arrangement, sell the marital residence, refinance the marital residence, or allow one party to buy out the other party's interest. The available options may include, but are not limited to: continuing the existing nesting arrangement, selling the marital residence and dividing the net proceeds equally, one party refinancing the mortgage and buying out the other party's equity interest, or another arrangement agreed upon in writing by the parties. If the parties cannot agree regarding the marital residence within sixty (60) days after remarriage of either party, they shall participate in mediation before either party seeks court intervention. Nothing in this provision shall prevent either party from requesting a modification of child support, parent-time, or other child-related orders if legally appropriate. The parties acknowledge that any child support order or deviation remains subject to court approval and applicable Utah law. Maximum Duration of Income-Sharing Arrangement: Regardless of any other provision, all income-sharing obligations under the Temporary Income-Sharing and Family-Support Arrangement shall terminate no later than the expiration of a period equal to the length of the parties' marriage, measured from the date of marriage through the date the Decree of Divorce is entered, unless otherwise agreed in writing by the parties or ordered by the court. This maximum duration applies even if neither party remarries before that date. Cohabitation / Legal Relief: The parties agree that engagement, dating, or cohabitation alone shall not automatically trigger the remarriage provisions of the Temporary Income-Sharing and Family-Support Arrangement. However, nothing in this provision prevents either party from seeking relief available under Utah law based on cohabitation or any other legally recognized basis.

Additional Provision: The parties agree that neither party shall pay traditional monthly alimony separate from the income-sharing arrangement described in these divorce documents. The parties' temporary income-sharing arrangement is part of the parties' overall stipulated financial settlement, property arrangement, nesting arrangement, and family-support plan. The parties intend this arrangement to provide financial stability for both households and for the minor children while the parties continue their shared parenting and nesting arrangement. No party shall owe any alimony or spousal support other than the obligations expressly stated in the Temporary Income-Sharing and Family-Support Arrangement, unless otherwise agreed in writing by the parties or ordered by the court.

Additional Provision: Deferred Division of 401(k) Accounts The parties agree that their 401(k) retirement accounts shall not be divided immediately upon entry of the Decree of Divorce. Instead, the parties shall continue contributing to their respective 401(k) accounts in the ordinary course until the first of the following triggering events occurs: (1) the remarriage of Kalie Anderson Larkin; (2) the expiration of a period equal to the length of the parties' marriage, measured from the date of marriage through the date the Decree of Divorce is entered; or (3) the death of either party. Upon the first triggering event, the parties' 401(k) accounts shall be valued and divided so that each party receives fifty percent (50%) of the combined value of the parties' 401(k) accounts as of the valuation date. The valuation date shall be the date of the triggering event unless otherwise agreed in writing by the parties. The division shall include all contributions made before and after entry of the Decree of Divorce, employer matches, gains, losses, dividends, interest, and investment growth or decline in the 401(k) accounts through the valuation date. Until the 401(k) accounts are divided, each party shall maintain 401(k) contributions consistent with the contribution arrangement in effect at the time the Decree of Divorce is entered, to the extent legally permitted and available under that party's employer-sponsored retirement plan. Any proposed change to contribution amounts, contribution percentages, employer deferrals, or similar retirement contribution elections shall be discussed and agreed upon by both parties in writing before the change is enacted. Neither party shall take loans, withdrawals, hardship distributions, rollovers, transfers, or other actions that materially reduce, encumber, or alter the value of any 401(k) account without the written agreement of both parties, except for ordinary investment management within the account. If either party changes employment, rolls over a 401(k), or transfers retirement funds to another qualified retirement account before division, the transferred funds shall remain subject to this provision and shall be traceable for purposes of division. The transferring party shall provide written notice to the other party within thirty (30) days of any rollover, transfer, or change in account custodian. Each party shall provide the other party with annual statements for any 401(k) account subject to this provision and shall also provide updated statements within thirty (30) days after any triggering event. To the extent permitted by the applicable retirement plan and law, each party shall maintain the other party as beneficiary of that portion of the 401(k) account necessary to preserve the other party's rights under this provision until the accounts are divided. If either party dies before division, the deceased party's estate, beneficiaries, personal representative, and the surviving party shall cooperate to carry out the division required by this provision as though the triggering event occurred on the date of death. The parties shall cooperate in preparing, signing, and submitting any Qualified Domestic Relations Order (QDRO) or similar order necessary to divide the 401(k) accounts after the triggering event. Any required QDRO or similar retirement division order shall be prepared, signed, and submitted within one hundred twenty (120) days after the triggering event. Notwithstanding any numeric QDRO deadline or general document-signing deadline stated elsewhere in these documents, the parties agree that this Deferred Division of 401(k) Accounts provision controls. No QDRO shall be required immediately upon entry of the Decree of Divorce. Any numeric QDRO deadline entered elsewhere in these documents is intended to represent the outside deadline for division of the 401(k) accounts and is subject to the triggering events described in this provision. If a plan administrator rejects or requires changes to any proposed QDRO or similar order, the parties shall cooperate in good faith to revise the order as necessary while preserving the economic intent of this provision. The court shall retain jurisdiction to enter, amend, or enforce any QDRO or other order necessary to carry out this deferred division of retirement accounts.

Additional Provision: Romantic Partners: The parents mutually expect that neither parent will introduce a romantic partner to the children as a romantic partner until the relationship has been exclusive for at least six (6) months and is progressing toward marriage, unless otherwise agreed upon by the parents.

Additional Provision: Temporary Schedule Changes: The parents may mutually agree to temporary changes or deviations from the parent-time schedule without modifying the underlying court order. Temporary changes may be agreed to in writing, by text message, by email, or by another mutually accepted method. Major or permanent changes to the Parenting Plan must be in writing and signed by both parents or ordered by the court.

Duty to sign documents

62. The parties will sign all documents necessary to comply with the divorce decree within 60 days from entry of the decree. If a party fails to sign a document within 60 days, the other party may ask the court to appoint someone to sign the document. (Utah Rule of Civil Procedure 70)
