That parent will give the other parent the travel schedule, locations and phone numbers at least 14 days in advance. In case of emergency, the parent will provide as much notice as possible.

23. Other agreements about travel by the children: International Travel with Minor Child: Neither parent shall remove the minor child from the United States of America for any period of time without first obtaining the prior written permission of the other parent and providing notice at least three (3) weeks (21 days) prior to the planned departure date. Prior written permission means a text message, email, or any other form of writing. Notice of the proposed travel (and the request for permission) may be given by written notice, telephone call, or text message. The notice/request (whether written, by phone call, or by text) shall include, at a minimum: The full name(s) of the country or countries to be visited; The planned travel dates (departure and return); A detailed itinerary of travel, including destinations, and approximate dates at each location; Contact information (telephone numbers, email, or other means) at which the traveling parent and the child can be reached during the trip; and The name and telephone number of an available third person who will be knowledgeable of the child's location at all times during the travel (consistent with Utah Code requirements for travel notification). The non-traveling parent shall respond to the request for permission in writing (email, text, or other written method) within a reasonable time, not to exceed seven (7) days after receiving the notice/request. Permission shall not be unreasonably withheld. "Permission shall not be unreasonably withheld" means that the non-traveling parent may not refuse consent for arbitrary, petty, retaliatory, or bad-faith reasons. A refusal must be based on a legitimate, good-faith concern related to the child's welfare or the specific circumstances of the proposed trip (for example, genuine safety or security risks in the destination country, concerns about the child's health or emotional well-being, a history of the traveling parent failing to return the child on time or violating prior orders, inadequate trip information being provided, or an unresolvable conflict with the non-traveling parent's court-ordered parent-time). Refusal solely because of personal dislike of the destination, anger at the other parent, or a desire to exercise control is not a reasonable basis for withholding permission. In the event of a dispute, the court shall determine reasonableness under Utah's best-interests-of-the-child standard. If notice/request is given by telephone call, the traveling parent shall follow up in writing (email, text, or other written method) within 24 hours confirming the details provided in the call. The traveling parent shall also provide any updates to the itinerary or contact information as soon as reasonably practicable if changes occur. This provision is intended to supplement, and not conflict with, Utah law regarding travel notification (including the requirements that apply whenever a child travels with a parent) and any abduction-prevention measures the court may order. Failure to obtain the required permission or to provide the required notice and information will be considered a violation of this order and may subject the non-complying parent to contempt proceedings or other remedies available under Utah law.

This statutory process applies in addition to the 40-mile radius restriction the parties have agreed to in this Order.

Additional provisions

59. The parties will adhere to the following additional provisions:

Additional Provision: Morality Clause – Overnight Romantic Guests: The parties acknowledge that it is in the best interests of their minor child to promote the child's emotional well-being, stability, and consistency. To support these goals, minimize unnecessary disruptions in the child's home environment, and reduce the child's exposure to frequent changes in adult romantic relationships, both parties agree to the following: For a period of six (6) months beginning June 1, 2026, and ending November 30, 2026, neither parent will allow a person with whom they are involved in a romantic or dating relationship to stay overnight in the home while the minor child is present. For purposes of this provision, "overnight" means between the hours of 10:00 p.m. and 6:00 a.m. If either parent begins a new romantic or dating relationship after the initial six-month period, this restriction will restart for that new partner. For purposes of this provision, a parent is considered to have begun a new romantic or dating relationship on the date the relationship becomes "exclusive", meaning both individuals have mutually agreed that they are in an exclusive romantic relationship and are no longer dating other people. The six-month restriction will begin on the date the relationship becomes exclusive and will apply only to that partner. This restriction applies equally to both parents. The parties may modify this provision only by a written agreement signed by both parties or by further order of the court.

Additional Provision: Introduction of Romantic Partners to the Minor Child: To reduce unnecessary disruptions and allow the child adequate time to adjust to changes in family circumstances, both parties agree to the following: Neither parent shall introduce a new romantic partner to the minor child until the parent has been in an exclusive romantic relationship with that person for a minimum of three (3) months. For purposes of this provision, an exclusive romantic relationship means that both individuals have mutually agreed that they are in a committed relationship and are no longer dating other people. Before introducing a new romantic partner to the minor child, the parent shall provide the other parent with reasonable advance notice of the planned introduction. The notice shall be provided in a manner that allows the other parent sufficient time to be informed before the child is introduced to the new partner. Before introducing a new romantic partner to the minor child, the parent shall use reasonable judgment to ensure that the relationship is stable, ongoing, and likely to have a positive impact on the child's emotional well-being. Neither parent shall introduce multiple romantic partners to the minor child within a short period of time or in a manner that creates confusion, instability, or unnecessary emotional stress for the child. Both parents agree to communicate respectfully regarding the introduction of a new romantic partner and shall avoid involving the minor child in adult relationship matters or conflicts. This provision applies equally to both parents and may be modified only by a written agreement signed by both parties or by further order of the court.

Additional Provision: Alcohol, Marijuana/Cannabis, and Controlled Substances During Parenting Time: To ensure that each parent is able to provide appropriate care, supervision, and a safe environment, both parties agree to the following: Neither parent shall consume alcohol to the point of impairment, use illegal controlled substances, use marijuana/cannabis for non-medical purposes, or misuse prescription medications during their scheduled parenting time or while responsible for the care of the minor child. A parent who uses legally authorized medical cannabis shall do so only in accordance with applicable Utah laws, medical provider instructions, and dosing guidelines, and shall not use medical cannabis in a manner that impairs their ability to safely care for, supervise, or respond to the needs of the minor child. Neither parent shall allow the minor child to be exposed to the use, possession, storage, or presence of alcohol, marijuana/cannabis, illegal controlled substances, or misused prescription medications in a manner that creates a risk to the child's safety or well-being. Neither parent shall drive with the minor child in their care while impaired by alcohol, marijuana/cannabis, illegal controlled substances, or the misuse of prescription medications. This provision applies equally to both parents and may be modified only by a written agreement signed by both parties or by further order of the court.

Additional Provision: Right of First Refusal The parties acknowledge that it is in the best interests of their minor child to promote the child's emotional well-being, stability, and consistency by maximizing the child's time with a parent whenever reasonably possible. Both parties agree to the following: If either parent is unable to personally care for the minor child during their scheduled parenting time for a period of more than four (4) consecutive hours, that parent shall first offer the other parent the opportunity to care for the child before arranging for a third party to provide childcare. The parent who requires childcare shall notify the other parent as soon as reasonably possible and provide the expected start and end times of the period of childcare needed. The receiving parent shall have one (1) hour from the time notice is received to accept or decline the opportunity to exercise parenting time. If the receiving parent does not respond within that one (1) hour period, the parent requiring childcare may make other childcare arrangements. If the receiving parent declines the opportunity or does not respond within the required timeframe, the parent exercising parenting time may arrange for appropriate childcare. This provision applies equally to both parents and does not apply to routine childcare arrangements, school, daycare, extracurricular activities, or care provided by a mutually agreed-upon family member or other approved caregiver. This provision may be modified only by a written agreement signed by both parties or by further order of the court.
