E. Neither party's extended parent time shall interfere with any holiday or previously scheduled events.

F. Neither party shall "book" or otherwise schedule an extended week that exceeds the seven (7) days allowed.

9. HOLIDAYS: The parties will follow the holiday parent-time schedule under Utah Code § 81-9-302 for children ages five and older.

17. FIRST RIGHT OF REFUSAL: It is hereby ordered that if either party has the minor child in his or her custody and is going to be out of town overnight, that party shall contact the other parent to allow the other parent to care for the minor child while they are out of town overnight. If the other parent is not available to provide personal care, the child may be cared for by a third party as selected by the parent who has the right to have the minor child in their care.

18. PARENTING PLAN: That the parties are hereby ordered to follow the below parenting plan

A. It is important that the child have a meaningful, loving, caring, nurturing and positive relationship with each parent.

B. Each party will treat the other with respect, and use his or her best efforts to encourage and foster a mutually-loving and bonded relationship between the parent and the child.

C. The parties will respect the child's right to have a meaningful bond with each parent, grandparents and other relatives.

D. As the child's self-esteem is affected by having a positive perception of both parents, the parties will say only positive things about the other parent in the child's presence, emphasizing parental strengths as much as possible, and both parties will refrain from the following and will prevent others from doing so as well: making any disparaging, derogatory, unkind, or demeaning remarks regarding the other in the presence of the child; from vilifying the other parent or saying anything that would cast the other parent in a negative light in the presence of the child; and from doing anything that might impair the parent-child relationship.

E. Both parties are restrained from discussing with the child issues about court, visitation or parent-time, legal issues stemming from the divorce, or from allowing the child to read any documents pertaining to those issues.

F. The parties will establish and maintain good communication and a cooperative relationship regarding the child and promptly return telephone calls regarding the child.

G. The parties will share information and complaints in a factual and respectful manner.

H. The parties will conduct their communications in a business-like manner without assuming intent, placing blame, or disputing an event that occurred in the past, and should keep their communications productive. If the meetings or communications become heated or overly emotional, the parties will end the discussion and reschedule it for a different time.

I. The parties will not use the child as messengers between them for any purpose whatsoever.

J. The parties will use their best efforts to communicate and share information regarding the child and keep the other apprised of the events of the child's life.

K. Each party will timely inform the other, within not more than 24 hours of receiving notice, of all community, school, athletic, church activities, or other community functions in which the child is or may be participating, or will be honored, so as to allow both parents the opportunity to attend and participate fully.

L. Both parents are entitled to reasonably participate as a parent in the lives of the child.

M. The parties will advise and exchange information with each other concerning social, religious training, education, health, welfare and medical treatment of the child and, where possible, consult with and consider the other parent’s input.

N. Both parties will advise and reasonably consult with each other about non-emergency medical decisions, major or significant decisions that affect the welfare, social, religious training, and education of the child and reasonably consider the other parent’s input.

O. Either parent may make emergency medical decisions regarding the safety of the child.

P. Each party will notify the other party immediately of any health care emergency regarding the child.

Q. Day-to-day decisions regarding the care, control, and discipline of the child will be made by the parent with whom the child are with at the time.

R. Both parents will have direct access to the child's school records, including pre-school, day care and medical records.

S. Each parent will provide the other with their current address, telephone number, e-mail address, and any other virtual parent-time access information within 24 hours of any change.

T. Each parent will permit and encourage the child to have liberal and uncensored communication with the other parent during reasonable hours and for reasonable durations in the form of telephone, mail, and e-mail.

U. The parents will cooperate with each other regarding special events in the child's life, including family reunions, funerals, weddings, and similar events.

V. The parties will have the child ready for parent time exchanges and will be on time. If a party is going to be late either to pick up or deliver the child, he or she will make contact with the other party to advise of the same.

W. Both parties will protect the child from exposure to inappropriate sexual material, illegal drugs, alcohol and tobacco as such influences are not in the child's best interests.

X. The parents will discuss discipline problems and reach a consensus whenever possible on parenting strategies as consistent patterns of discipline and reward will allow the child to feel more secure with both parents.

Y. The parties will be courteous and respectful during parent-time exchanges; the parties will not discuss any financial issue or other significant issue during parent-time exchanges.

Z. The parties will each have the responsibility during their own parenting times to ensure the child's hygiene and cleanliness, including going to and from exchanges in clean clothing.

AA. For emergency purposes, whenever the child travel with either party, all of the following will be provided to the other party: an itinerary of travel dates; destinations; places where the child can be reached; and the name and telephone number of an available third person who would be knowledgeable of the child's location.

BB. For the purpose of any dispute resolution, the parties will first discuss any disagreements through the OurFamilyWizard (OFW) parenting application. If they are unable to reach an agreement, they will consult with an appropriate professional or expert regarding the issue, including the child’s doctor or other medical professional for medical issues and the child’s teacher, school, or other education professional for educational issues, etc. If the parties are still unable to reach an agreement after consulting with the appropriate professional, either party may request mediation. The parties will share the cost of mediation equally. If mediation is unsuccessful, Petitioner shall have interim final decision-making authority, subject to Respondent's right to seek court intervention and review. Petitioner's decision shall remain in effect unless and until the Court orders otherwise.

CC. If either party fails to comply with a provision of this parenting plan, the other parent’s obligations hereunder are not affected.

19. CHILD SUPPORT AND ARREARS: It is hereby ordered that Respondent shall pay child support to Petitioner in the amount of $732 per month through January 1, 2027. Beginning January 1, 2027, Respondent’s child support obligation shall be $680 per month, based on a 9/5 parent-time schedule.

20. The child support obligation is based on Petitioner’s gross monthly income of $2,030 and Respondent’s gross monthly income of $6,666. The child support calculation beginning January 1, 2027, is based on Petitioner having 235 overnights per year and Respondent having 130 overnights per year.

21. Respondent is delinquent in his child support obligations to Petitioner in the amount of $8,484. Respondent shall receive a $2,500 credit against the delinquent child support for Petitioner's share of the Custody Evaluator's fees. Therefore, Respondent's remaining child support arrears owed to Petitioner are $5,984. Respondent shall pay the $5,984 to Petitioner within seven (7) days of September 28, 2026.

22. COMMUNICATION: The parties are hereby ordered to use OurFamilyWizard (OFW) for communication regarding the child.

23. PARENTING COURSE: Respondent is hereby ordered to complete an online high-conflict parenting course within six months of this Decree of Paternity being signed.

24. That Petitioner has already completed the course as previously ordered.

25. The Court advised the Respondent that he is on "thin ice" with the Court regarding domestic violence issues. The Court indicates that there will be a low threshold for revisiting Respondent's parent time schedule if there is any further domestic violence involving Respondent.

26. CO-PARENTING AND SUPPORT: The Court expects the parties to work together for benefit of the minor child.

27. The child has a positive and strong relationship and bond with both parents. Both parents are expected to use their best efforts to encourage and support the child's relationship with the other parent.

28. As an example, the Court requested that each parent have a picture of the other parent in the child’s bedroom.

29. The Court also encouraged the parties to allow and support the child in purchasing birthday, Mother’s Day, and Father’s Day gifts for the other parent. This is intended to allow both parents to demonstrate that they value the other parent and show the child they have a positive relationship with their co-parent.

30. Neither parent shall introduce the minor child to a romantic partner until the parent has been in a dating relationship with that partner for at least six (6) months.

31. HEALTH INSURANCE: Respondent shall continue to carry health insurance for the minor child as long as it is available to him. If Respondent can no longer provide health insurance, Petitioner shall provide coverage if it is available to her. Petitioner may also choose to carry health insurance for the minor child through her own insurance plan.

32. If both parties carry health insurance for the minor child, Respondent's insurance shall be primary and Petitioner's insurance shall be secondary, unless otherwise required by the insurance companies.

33. The parties shall equally share the cost of the minor child's health insurance premiums, deductibles, co-pays, and medical and dental expenses not covered by insurance, as outlined in Utah Code Ann. § 81-6-208. The parties shall notify each other of any changes in insurance coverage.

34. The parties shall equally share the cost of health insurance premiums paid for the minor child. Petitioner's one-half share of the premium paid by Respondent shall be deducted from Respondent's monthly child support obligation. If Petitioner provides the insurance instead, Respondent shall pay one-half of the child's premium, with the appropriate adjustment made to his child support obligation.

35. DAY CARE: That the parties are hereby ordered to comply with U.C.A. § 81-9-209 regarding day care expenses.

36. TAX DEDUCTIONS: That Respondent claimed the minor child as a dependent on his 2024 tax returns. Therefore, Petitioner shall claim the minor child as a dependent on her 2025 tax returns. Thereafter, the parties shall alternate claiming the child each year with Petitioner claiming in odd-numbered years and Respondent claiming in even-numbered years.

37. FUTURE MEDIATION: The parties are hereby ordered to attend mediation in the spring of 2029, before the minor child starts school. The purpose of mediation is to discuss possible changes to physical custody and parent-time, including the possibility of a 50/50 schedule as discussed in the custody evaluation.

38. If the parties cannot reach an agreement, either party may file a Petition to Modify with the Court. Because the parties are already considering these changes when the child starts school, neither party will be required to show a substantial and material change in circumstances to request the modification.

39. ATTORNEY'S FEES: That each party are hereby ordered to pay their own attorney's fees incurred in these proceedings.
