Additional provisions

77. The parties will adhere to the following additional provisions:

Additional Provision: Both parties shall mutually restrain from bothering, harassing, annoying, threatening, disparaging, or harming the other party at the other party's place of residence, employment or any other place. Both parties are restrained from using the likeness, image or credit of the other party for any purpose. The Parties shall co-parent cooperatively, focusing on the physical, emotional, and financial well-being of the children. Each parent shall support and encourage the children's meaningful relationship with the other parent. Civil communication is required at all times. Name-calling or hostile communication is prohibited. If information is available through public sources (e.g., school portals), each parent shall access it directly. Both parents shall support and encourage the minor children's regular school attendance and academic success. Absences from school shall occur only when the child is ill, when the absence qualifies as an excused absence under applicable school policies, or when otherwise mutually agreed upon by the parties in advance. Each parent shall ensure the children attend school during their respective parent- time unless a permitted absence applies. Each spouse shall keep the other spouses private information including personal matters confidential including relationships. Right of First Refusal Parental care is preferred over surrogate care. If child care is needed for a period of three (3) hours or more, the other parent shall be offered the opportunity to provide care before third-party caregivers are used. In addition, neither parties significant other will be given first right to child care. The parties shall create and maintain a mutually approved list of surrogate caregivers/babysitters who may be used by either parent without additional approval. Any caregiver not on the approved list must be mutually agreed upon in advance and in writing before caring for the minor children. Both parents shall provide names, addresses, and phone numbers of any caregivers used. Neither party shall speak negatively about the other parent or allow third parties to do so in the children's presence. Neither party shall discuss court matters with or in front of the children. Neither party shall disparage the other on social media or in public. The parties acknowledge that introducing new partners may have emotional impacts on the minor children. Each party shall exercise reasonable care, good judgment, and sensitivity when introducing the children to new partners, and shall prioritize the children's emotional well-being throughout the process. Out of respect, both parties will inform the other before introducing the children to a new partner. Neither party shall allow the children to call any future spouse or partner "dad" or "mom" or any other variance. Neither party shall use illegal drugs or consume alcohol to excess while caring for the children or prior to transporting them. Alcohol and medications shall be stored securely and out of the children's reach.

Duty to sign documents

78. The parties will sign all documents necessary to comply with the divorce decree within 60 days from entry of the decree. If a party fails to sign a document within 60 days, the other party may ask the court to appoint someone to sign the document. (Utah Rule of Civil Procedure 70)
