PARENTING PLAN
(Pursuant to 81-9-202, Utah Code Annotated)

19. The parties are fit and proper persons to be awarded joint legal custody of their minor children. The following plan shall be incorporated by the parties:

a. As parents, we are dedicated individuals who want our children to have a meaningful and positive relationship with each of us. Each of our primary concern shall be our children's welfare and part of that comprises an affirmative duty to help our children foster, nurture and continue developing a positive parent-child relationship with the other parent and to develop a positive relationship with the other parties significant other and their family members or children. We realize that both parents and their families are important in the life of our children, and we will bolster our children's self-esteem by praising the other parent and their families for their good qualities. We are both restrained from saying or doing anything that would tend to diminish our children's love and affection for the other parent or their family. We agree not to attempt to influence in any way our children's preferences regarding custody or visitation.

b. We agree to be supportive of the other party's role as a parent. Neither of us shall attempt to alienate our children in any way from the other parent. We both have an affirmative duty to co-parent our children in a way that promotes his/her best interest. We are also restrained from discussing our children's relationship with the other parent in front of, or with our minor children, or from questioning, interrogating, or otherwise "pumping" our children for information.

c. Neither party shall enter the residence and/or work location of the other party unless they are invited to do so.

d. We realize that our children do not have control over adult issues and therefore could be easily stressed by knowledge associated with circumstances or facts outside of our children's control. To this end we agree that we will not subject our children to circumstances or facts that constitute adult issues. This shall include but is not limited to: controlling parent-time, negative information about the other parent, or using the children as confidantes or to counsel with us about these adult issues.

e. We will not cast aspersions on or attribute negative actions to the other parent as this may damage our children's relationship with the other parent. This means we will not discuss monetary issues, court matters including but not limited to allegations made by either party in court; or any other matter or actions—real or perceived—done by the other party. Because our children may have access to social media, we agree not to publish negative comments about the other parent.

f. Child exchange times shall be without tension or contention for the children's benefit. We agree to be courteous and respectful when exchanging the children and shall defer discussing any disputes until a time and place outside of the children's presence.

g. We realize it is important for us to establish and maintain good communication and a cooperative relationship regarding the care of our children. We agree to be calm, civil, and polite in all of our communications with one another, and shall avoid profanity, rudeness, raising our voice, and name-calling.

Our communications shall focus on our children and avoid personal attacks or dredging up the past. We shall communicate with one another openly, honestly, and cooperatively to advance and promote the best interests of our children.

h. We realize that we each have rights, privileges, duties and powers relating to our children. Each of us strongly desires that our children enjoy a loving, caring and nurturing relationship with the other and we will make best efforts to make this a reality. This shall include us continuing to work on united parenting where possible. However, we understand that neither of us is allowed to dictate what takes place in the other parent's home, or during their parent time.

i. We may alter our parent-time schedule as we can agree in writing, and such changes are preferable to seeking judicial resolution of issues. In developing and coordinating schedules, we shall be guided by the objectives of allowing each parent to develop and maintain a meaningful relationship with our children, providing our children with a safe and stable environment, accommodating our children's school and other schedules, and cooperating to accommodate each parent's employment schedules.

j. We agree to provide care, love, support and opportunities for our children to the best of our abilities and we agree that our children shall receive the most adequate level of economic support that can be provided by the efforts of both of us.

k. We shall be solely responsible for costs incurred for our minor children unless specifically outlined otherwise in our Decree, or agreed upon in writing otherwise, including clothing, shoes, food, events or activities, etc. We must not discuss activities with the children until first discussing them with the other parent, and we must never assign blame to either parent for a child's ability or inability to attend an activity/activities.

l. For emergency purposes, whenever the children travel overnight with either of us, all of the following will be provided to the other parent: (a) an itinerary of travel dates; (b) destinations; (c) places where the children or traveling parent can be reached; and (d) the name and telephone number of an available third person who would be knowledgeable of the children's location.

m. We agree if either party travels with the minor children in which a passport is required, the parties will assist each other in applying for and obtaining any such passports on behalf of the minor children. Once the passport is obtained, the Petitioner will hold the passport when it is not in use. Reasonable efforts will be made to facilitate communication between the children and the other party during travel. Neither parent will unreasonably withhold consent for the use of passports for the children's international travel consistent with this Agreement, and both parties will cooperate in executing any necessary travel authorization forms as required by law or requested by border authorities to facilitate the children's travel.

n. The parent in possession of the passport will promptly provide it to the traveling parent upon reasonable request and with sufficient time to allow for necessary travel arrangements. The traveling parent will return the passport to the designated holder parent within five (5) days of returning from travel, unless otherwise agreed in writing.

o. We agree that neither parent shall enroll the children in any extracurricular activity that has expected involvement by the other parent without prior consent. Involvement by the other parent could include sharing costs, transporting of the children to activities or interference with scheduled parent time. If a parent wishes to enroll the children in an activity that will not require involvement of the other parent, then that parent may do so understanding that they would not be able to anticipate the other parent's cooperation either with respect to sharing of the costs, transporting of the children to activities or interference with parent time schedules.

p. We agree our communications shall be limited to matters concerning the scheduling of visitation, changes to the schedule or discussions about the health and well-being of the children and shall occur between the parents only, and that we will not relay messages to one another through our children.

q. We agree we shall not speak in a disparaging or negative way about the other parent in the presence of our children or on social media, and that we each have an affirmative duty to remove our children from the vicinity of any third party making such disparaging comments or otherwise acting in violation of court orders. We shall cooperate with one another for the benefit of our children, be civil and polite with one another, and work together for the best interest of our children, living by the Golden Rule—treating each other as we would like to be treated.

r. We agree to jointly confer and discuss all non-routine major decisions concerning the health, education, welfare or religious upbringing of our children.

All such decisions having a financial impact upon both of us must first be agreed upon between us in writing if there is to be an expectation of reimbursement from the other party. In the event we cannot reach an agreement, we shall consult professionals in the area of dispute for their opinions to see if they can help resolve our issues. If we still cannot reach an agreement, then we may take the issue to court, but only after first attempting to settle such disputes through a mutually agreed upon mediator, splitting the costs between us equally.

s. If the Court finds that a parent has taken a frivolous or unreasonable position regarding a major decision for the children, then the court may award attorney's fees and financial sanctions to the prevailing parent.

t. We shall both be listed as our children's emergency contact persons on all school records, registration forms, medical records, and any other document with legal importance or other significance.

u. We shall notify each other as soon as reasonably possible after either of us learns of any significant school, social, sports or other community functions in which our children may be participating or being honored so as to allow each the opportunity to attend and participate.

v. We shall both have free and open access to all information regarding our children, including medical records, school records, ecclesiastical records, dental records, information relating to the children's extracurricular activities, etc. This means, among other things, that we shall both be fully entitled to contact our children's schools, doctors, therapists, daycare providers, church leaders, etc. to obtain information connected to our children. We must both execute any releases necessary to allow the other parent access to such records relating to our minor children.

w. We shall both be notified as soon as possible in the event of any medical emergencies or doctor appointments for our children. We agree to involve and consult with each other before taking any therapeutic action or intervention involving our minor children, including whether a child/children participate in therapy, which therapists or counselors are used, and which facilities and programs are used.

x. If we determine that therapy or counseling is in the best interests of a minor child, or our children, we shall both have full and complete access to any therapeutic processes or programs to which the children are submitted, including the right to participate fully in all therapeutic processes or programs. We shall both have full and complete access to the therapists and/or counselors treating the children and to their records.

y. Both parties shall have access to our children during school and will have authority to check our children out of school, if necessary. Unless otherwise agreed in writing, we agree not to interrupt our children's schooling to exercise parent-time. Neither of us shall check our children out of school during the other parties' parent-time without express written permission from the other party.

z. We shall share, equally, the school fees for our children including the cost of all activities at our children's school.

aa. We shall each be entitled to make decisions regarding day-to-day care and control of our children while we are exercising parent-time. We agree that each of us shall be entitled to make emergency decisions concerning our children, and that the other parent shall be informed of the decision as soon as possible thereafter. That said, the parent exercising parent-time during an emergency shall use his/her best efforts to consult with the other parent regarding emergency decisions and the medical treatment of our children.

bb. We shall permit and encourage our children to have liberal telephone or virtual uncensored, and unmonitored communications with the other parent during reasonable hours and for reasonable durations.

cc. Such communication between a parent and our children shall not be unreasonably denied by the parent who has the children at the time, so long as such communications do not conflict with existing plans or scheduled events and activities, or interfere with the children's customary routine, thereby causing emotional discomfort. Our communications with each other (which require a response) must be responded to within a timely manner, but not later than 48 hours. Communications should not be done through third parties unless we mutually agree otherwise in writing.

dd. We shall provide each other a current address and telephone number within 48 hours of any change.

ee. We agree that we must both maintain safe and appropriate sleeping and living accommodations for our children.

ff. We agree that neither party shall be entitled to first right of refusal for surrogate care.

gg. We shall give special consideration to the other to make our children available to attend family functions including funerals, weddings, family reunions, religious holidays, important ceremonies and other significant events in the life of our children or in the life of either parent which may inadvertently conflict with the time sharing that we've agreed to exercise. Notwithstanding the foregoing, neither party may schedule activities during the other parent's parent-time absent a written agreement.

hh. We are restrained from bothering, harassing, annoying, threatening or otherwise interfering with the other parent and their relationships.

ii. We agree that our circumstances will change and the needs of our children may require a periodic review of custodial arrangements and children-support orders.

EMPLOYMENT AND CHILD SUPPORT

20. The parties are currently both unemployed. However, they agree that they are both capable of earning $17 per hour full time which is $2,947 per month in gross income. Based upon that fact, and the parties sharing an equal 50/50 physical custody arrangement, neither party shall be entitled to receive child support from the other at this time. However, either party may bring this issue before the court if a substantial change in the parties' circumstances arises affecting this section.

21. If child support is ordered in the future, the child support award is to be paid ½ by the fifth (5th) of each month and the remaining ½ by the twentieth (20th) of each month.

22. If child support is ordered in the future, the child support obligations shall continue until (1) the child reaches 18 years of age, or graduates from high school during the child's normal and expected year of graduation, whichever occurs later, or (2) the child dies, marries, becomes a member of the armed forces of the United States, or is emancipated in accordance with UCA § 78A-6-801 et. Seq. (as amended – including and incorporating all subsequent amendments thereto). Upon the month following the occurrence of the foregoing the child support award will automatically adjust for any remaining minor children.

INSURANCE AND HEALTH CARE

23. The parties shall maintain policies of health insurance on the parties' minor children so long as such can be obtained through their places of employment for a reasonable cost. If a parent remarries and the parties' children are covered by a stepparent's plan, such a plan shall be treated the same as if the actual parent was the one holding said plan under this section.

24. The parties are required to each pay one half (1/2) of the children's portion of the insurance premiums. This shall be calculated by dividing the premium amount by the number of persons covered under the policy (which will be each child's per-capita share of the premium), and multiplying the result by the number of minor children between the parties, and then dividing the result by two to determine each party's responsibility. At any time, the parties' minor children are covered by insurance policies from both parents, then the parties will be solely responsible for the insurance premiums of their own respective plans with no responsibility for any portion of the premiums of the insurance policies of the other parent.

25. Pursuant to UCA §81-6-208 et. Seq. (as amended – including and incorporating all subsequent amendments thereto), each party shall pay one-half (1/2) of any uninsured portion of medical, dental, orthodontia, counseling, prescription (including over-the-counter medications) and optical expenses; including out-of-pocket expenses, deductibles and co-payments incurred for the parties' children. Evidence of such expenses shall be submitted in writing with copies of receipts to the non-incurring party within thirty (30) days of having been incurred. Once verification of the expense has been delivered to the non-incurring party, the non-incurring party will have thirty (30) days in which to reimburse the paying party for his/her one-half share.

26. The party holding insurance must provide the other party with written verification of such insurance coverage on or before January 2nd of each year and should notify the other party of any change of insurance, premium or benefits within thirty (30) calendar days of the date he/she first knew or should have known of the change.

27. The party holding insurance shall provide the other party any insurance cards, lists of participating physicians and information describing the benefits available so that the parties' children can obtain full and complete coverage from the insurance available.

28. The parent incurring medical expenses may be denied the right to receive reimbursements for the expenses or to recover the other parent's share of the expenses if the parent incurring the expenses fails to comply with this section.

29. Pursuant to UCA §15-4-6.7, when a court order has been entered providing for the payment of medical expenses for minor children pursuant to the Utah Code, a creditor who has been provided a copy of the order may not make a claim for unpaid medical expenses against a parent who has paid in full that share of the medical and dental expenses required to be paid by that parent under the Order, nor may the creditor make a negative report under §70C-7-107, or report of the debtor's repayment practices or credit history under Title 7, Chapter 14, Credit Information Exchange, regarding a parent who has paid in full that share of the medical and dental expenses required to be paid by that parent under the Order.

ALIMONY

30. The parties are capable of supporting themselves financially and therefore neither party shall be granted alimony from the other now or in the future with both parties having forever waived any and all rights to such payments.

REAL PROPERTY

31. During the marriage, the parties have not accumulated any real property.

PERSONAL PROPERTY

32. The Petitioner and Respondent have accumulated marital property, and each shall be entitled to their own personal property and ½ of the marital property. Marital property shall be divided as the parties can agree in writing. If they cannot agree in writing, then the parties may bring the issue before the court for a decision.

33. The parties are solely responsible for all costs associated with their own personal property and assets they are awarded, including repairs, maintenance, etc., and must indemnify the other party from any such costs being brought against them.

RETIREMENT

34. Neither party has retirement accounts to be divided in this case.

DEBTS AND OBLIGATIONS

35. During the contract of marriage, the parties have acquired marital debts. The parties shall each be equally responsible for marital debt. Any debt entered into by one party since the parties' separation, that is not considered marital debt shall be the sole responsibility of the party who incurred it. The parties must hold the other party harmless for and indemnify them against prosecution of any such debt.

ATTORNEY FEES

36. The parties shall be responsible for their own attorney's fees and court costs.

INCOME TAX EXEMPTIONS

37. The Petitioner shall claim I.R.D. every year for tax purposes, and the Respondent shall claim D.R.D. every year for tax purposes. When I.R.D. is no longer able to be claimed, then the Petitioner will claim D.R.D. every odd-numbered year and the Respondent will claim D.R.D. every even-numbered year for tax purposes.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

38. Each party is permanently restrained from bothering, harassing, annoying, threatening, or harming the other. The parties shall not malign or defame the other on social media or otherwise. The parties shall not interfere with the lives or relationships of the other, or with family members of the other party. The parties each have an affirmative duty to stop third parties from doing what they themselves are unable to do under the court's orders, using best efforts to prevent third parties from such violations.

39. The Respondent is allowed to return to her maiden name of Robinette if or when she so desires.

40. Each party is ordered to execute and deliver to the other party any document(s) necessary to implement the provisions of the Decree of Divorce entered by the Court.

41. If a party is found in contempt of court for failing to follow the court's orders, they will be solely responsible for the costs and attorneys' fees of the other party for having to bring the issue of enforcement to court.

42. Draftsman: The parties understand, have acknowledged, and agreed that each of the parties hereto contributed to the drafting of the Settlement Agreement and the resulting orders, and no provision shall be construed against any party as being the draftsman thereof. The Settlement Agreement and the resulting orders shall therefore be construed without regard to any presumption or other rule requiring construction against the party causing the document to be drafted. The parties specifically, intentionally, and knowingly waived any right to allege, assert, or claim the benefit of any rule requiring construction against the drafting party.
