v.

MICHAEL WATSON,

Respondent / Appellee.

Court of Appeals Case No. 20190290

BRIEF OF APPELLEE

INTRODUCTION

Appellant Melinda Watson (Melinda) appeals a final order issued by the Second District Court which dismissed a protective Order against her ex-husband, Appellee Michael Watson (Michael) which had been issued by the commissioner. Melinda claims exhibits entered by Michael which she either stipulated to, did not object to as to Rule 108, or did not object to, should not have been admitted into evidence because of Rule 108, URCP. Melinda's appeal should be dismissed.

STATEMENT OF ISSUES PRESENTED ON APPEAL AND STANDARD OF

REVIEW

Melinda presents the following issues on Appeal:

ISSUE I. “Whether the judge erred in allowing a videotape and new emails to be introduced during the second part of an evidentiary hearing (which occurred thirty days after the first evidentiary hearing), when the evidence was never given to the other party prior to the second hearing, and the offering party had not moved to introduce the evidence prior to the second hearing.”

(Appellant’s Brief at 1-2)

Michael objects to this statement of the issue insofar as it misrepresents the record on appeal.

Determinative law:

State v. Winfield, 2006 UT 4, ¶ 14, 128 P.3d 1171 (“[U]nder the doctrine of invited error, we have declined to engage in even plain error review when ‘counsel, either by statement or act, affirmatively represented to the [trial] court that he or she had no objection to the [proceedings].’” (second and third alterations in original)).

Generally, a party cannot raise an issue for the first time on appeal. See In re E.R., 2001 UT App 66, ¶ 9, 21 P.3d 680. Instead, the party must preserve the issue for appeal by presenting it “‘to the trial court in such a way that the trial court has an opportunity to rule on that issue.’” Robertson's Marine, Inc. v. 14 Solutions, 2010 UT App 9, ¶ 10 (quoting 438 Main St. v. Easy Heat, Inc., 2004 UT 72, ¶ 51). “This requirement puts the trial judge on notice of the asserted error and allows for correction at that time in the course of the proceeding.” Id. (internal quotation marks omitted). Issues that are not properly preserved are usually deemed waived. See 438 Main St., 2004 UT 72, ¶ 51.

Standard of review:

“Pure questions of law . . . are reviewed for correctness.” Doyle v. Doyle, 2009 UT App 306, ¶ 6, citing Huish v. Munro, 2008 Ut App 283, ¶ 19, 191 P.3d 1242.

Preservation:

Appellant Melinda failed to preserve this issue by stipulating to the admission of Respondent’s exhibits 2 and 3 (R. 344-345, ll. 9-25; 1-3); by failing to object to the admission of Respondent’s exhibit 4 (R. 396, ll. 17-23) and by failing to object to the admission of Respondent’s Exhibit 1 on any purported grounds but relevance and materiality (R. 389-390, ll. 8-25; 1-25; R.312, ll. 24-25; R. 314-315, ll. 6-25, 1-18).

ISSUE II. “Assuming the wrongful evidence is excluded, whether the protective order should be reinstated?” (Appellant’s Brief at 2).

Standard of review:

“[A] trial court’s findings of fact will not be overturned unless they are clearly erroneous, and the trial court’s application of the statute to those findings will not be reversed absent an abuse of discretion.” Clark v. Clark, 2001 UT 44, ¶ 14, 27 P.3d 538.

Preservation:

R. 581-582.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellee Michael incorporates those facts referenced above as they may be relevant to any issue stated here.

On December 31, 2018, Appellee Michael Watson (Michael) objected to the commissioner's recommendation of a bare protective order requested by Appellant, his ex-wife Melinda Watson (Melinda) 14 days after a recommendation was entered on December 17, 2018. The trial court conducted an evidentiary hearing de novo on February 28, 2019, and March 28, 2019. There was no scheduling order prior to the hearing. The trial court took direct testimony from the parties and admitted evidence previously proffered to the commissioner. R. 302, ll. 4-10. Melinda made a preliminary objection based on Rule 108 without reference to a specific exhibit, to which the trial court stated, "I'm not going to make any preliminary rulings. We'll deal with the objections as they come up." R. 304, ll. 11-13. Melinda did not raise any objection to Michael's exhibit 1 under Rule 108, but objected as being not relevant or material, R. 314, ll. 9-25, which the court overruled. R. 315. Noting that objection alone, the court admitted Michael's exhibit 1. R. 389-90, ll. 6-25, 1-18. Exhibit 1 contained a text message from Melinda to Michael stating:

FYI I am planning on residential pickups during the summer.

I don't have many responsibilities on Friday, so I'll have to wait around and play your games. I hope Eileen is up for it.

Give her my condolences.

Michael's exhibit 1

Melinda objected to Michael's exhibits 2 and 3, videos taken by Michael, under Rule 108 URCP, before they were shown to the court. R. 323-324, ll. 3-25, 1-11. As part of his response, Michael stated that the evidence had been proffered to the commissioner. R. 324, ll. 16-20; R. 325, ll. 14-24. The court noted that the evidence had been proffered to the commissioner and overruled the objection. R. 326, ll. 9-13. After the videos were seen and testimony provided by Michael corroborating the videos, Melinda stipulated to their admission as exhibits 2 and 3 when they were offered by Michael. R. 344-345, ll. 9-25; 1-3. Exhibit 2 was a video from October 31, 2018, inside Michael's residence showing his doorbell ringing for approximately 6 minutes, with Melinda honking her car horn outside at least twice at the beginning of the video. Michael testified that the honking and doorbell ringing began about 6 minutes before the start of the video. R. 330, ll. 11-17. This had started about 15 minutes before the end of Michael's parent time for the evening. R. 319, ll. 16-23. Exhibit 3 showed Michael and Melinda taking video of each other for less than a minute while Melinda slowly backed out of her parking space and drove away. Melinda had testified that Michael had stood in front of her car for about 5 minutes. R. 168, ll. 10-13

When Michael offered his exhibit 4 (an email from Melinda) as evidence, Melinda made no objection. (R. 396, ll. 17-23). Michael's exhibit 4 was an email from Melinda to

Michael dated September 29, 2018, asking if they were going to sit together at the soccer game that day.

Michael testified and Melinda acknowledged that Melinda had been found in contempt of court for violating multiple provisions of the parties' divorce decree and had served 28 days in jail for contempt of court in summer of 2018. R. 210, ll. 14-20.

Michael filed a petition to modify the decree based on that contempt on September 5, 2018. R. 215, ll. 19-22. Melinda filed a petition for a protective order on November 13, 2018. R. 215-16, ll. 23-25, 1.

At the close of evidence the court entered detailed oral findings and an order on the record dismissing the protective order against Michael, and then signed an order of dismissal of the protective order in open court on March 28, 2019. Melinda filed a Notice of Appeal claiming that Michael's exhibits should have been excluded under Rule 108.

SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT

Michael proffered exhibits to the court commissioner at a protective order hearing, including 2 short videos (Michael's exhibits 2 and 3). R. 302, ll.4-10; R. 324, ll. 16-20; R. 325, ll. 14-24. Melinda's brief fails to acknowledge that any of Michael's exhibits were proffered to the commissioner. R. 302, ll.4-10. Melinda does not point out where she preserved any specific objection to any of Michael's 4 exhibits under Rule 108. Melinda made an objection for relevance and materiality as to Exhibit 1. R. 314, ll. 9-25. Melinda stipulated to the admission of exhibits 2 and 3. R. 344-345, ll. 9-25; 1-3. Melinda made no objection to the admission of exhibit 4. R. 396, ll. 17-23. Melinda invited error and failed to preserve any objection to the admission of Michael’s exhibits 1, 2, 3, and 4 with respect to Rule 108.

Melinda’s brief fails to describe or cite to any of her specific objections to Michael’s exhibits. Melinda’s brief fails to address Michael’s claim and the court’s finding that Michael’s exhibits had been proffered to the commissioner. Melinda’s brief fails to provide any argument for other reasons to exclude Michael’s exhibits.

ARGUMENT

FAILURE OF PRESERVATION

Generally, a party cannot raise an issue for the first time on appeal. See In re E.R., 2001 UT App 66, ¶ 9, 21 P.3d 680. Instead, the party must preserve the issue for appeal by presenting it “to the trial court in such a way that the trial court has an opportunity to rule on that issue.” Robertson's Marine, Inc. v. 14 Solutions, 2010 UT App 9, ¶ 10 (quoting 438 Main St. v. Easy Heat, Inc., 2004 UT 72, ¶ 51). “This requirement puts the trial judge on notice of the asserted error and allows for correction at that time in the course of the proceeding.” Id. (internal quotation marks omitted). Issues that are not properly preserved are usually deemed waived. See 438 Main St. v. Easy Heat, Inc., 2004 UT 72, ¶ 51.

See generally State v. Winfield, 2006 UT 4, ¶ 14, 128 P.3d 1171: (“[U]nder the doctrine of invited error, we have declined to engage in even plain error review when ‘counsel, either by statement or act, affirmatively represented to the [trial] court that he or she had no objection to the [proceedings].’” (second and third alterations in original)).

A party may challenge an evidentiary ruling on appeal only if the party preserved the challenge at trial by timely objecting to the ruling on the specific ground asserted on appeal. State v. Clark, 2016 UT App 120, 376 P.3d 1089, cert. denied 406 P.3d 251.

Defendant could not complain on appeal about introduction of alleged hearsay evidence, where defense counsel, at time evidence was introduced, expressly stated that counsel had no objection. State v. Dibello, 780 P.2d 1221 (UT 1989).

Melinda did not object to exhibit 1 with respect to Rule 108. R. 389-90, ll. 6-25, 1-18. Melinda stipulated to the admission of Exhibit 2 and 3. R. 344-345, ll. 9-25; 1-3. Melinda did not object to the admission of Exhibit 4. (R. 396, ll. 17-23) Melinda has no legal grounds on appeal to object to the admission of any of Michael’s exhibits based on Rule 108. State v. Winfield, 2006 UT 4, ¶ 14, 128 P.3d 1171.

Melinda has not provided support for any other legal argument to exclude Michael’s exhibits 1, 2, 3, and 4.

LACK OF RECORD PRECLUDES FINDING THAT EXHIBITS WERE NOT PROFFERED TO THE COMMISSIONER

The appellant, as the party alleging error, has the duty and responsibility of supporting [her] allegations by an adequate record. Ajinwo v. Chalesko, 2018 UT App 39. “Neither the court nor the appellee is required to correct appellant’s deficiencies in providing the relevant portions of the transcript.” Utah R. App. P. 11(e)(2). When an appellant fails to provide an adequate record for review, appellate courts will presume the regularity of the proceedings below. State v. Nielsen, 2011 Ut App 211. The court of Appeals would presume that trial court’s findings were supported by competent and sufficient evidence, where entire record was not before the court. Sampson v. Richins, 770 P. 2d 998 (UT Ct. App 1989), cert. denied, 776 P.2d 916.

Melinda objected to Michael’s exhibits 2 and 3 as being “new evidence” not submitted to the commissioner under Rule 108(c). R. 323-324. Michael stated that the exhibits had been proffered to the commissioner. R. 324, 325 ll. 17-20, 12-24. Melinda’s failure to include any record of the commissioner’s proceeding is fatal to her claim that the evidence was not submitted to the commissioner. Sampson v. Richins, 770 P. 2d 998 (UT Ct. App 1989), cert. denied, 776 P.2d 916. The record indicates that Michael’s exhibits were proffered to the commissioner in accordance with Rule 108 (c). R. 302, ll.4-10; R. 324, 325 ll. 17-20, 12-24. Melinda’s failure to present the record or any evidence in the record to contradict this prevents this court from finding the trial court’s ruling was incorrect with respect to URCP 108.

DEFERENCE TO TRIAL COURT ON FINDINGS OF FACT

Factual determinations of the trial court will not be disturbed unless they are clearly erroneous; in making such determination, the appellate court considers evidence in the light most favorable to the trial court. Mule-Hide Products Co., Inc. v. White, 2002

UT App 1. Utah R, Civ. P. 52(a). Melinda makes no effort to marshal the evidence to demonstrate the evidence in support of the trial court’s ruling, and she does not include the trial court’s findings in her addendum.

“Credibility determinations are within the province of the district court judge, who is uniquely equipped to make factual findings based exclusively on oral testimony due to his or her opportunity to view the witnesses firsthand, to assess their demeanor, and to consider their testimonies in the context of the proceedings as a whole.” Meyer v. Aposhian, 2016 UT App 47. The Court of Appeals may not substitute its judgment for the trial court regarding witness credibility, as trial courts are in a better position to weigh conflicting evidence and evaluate the credibility of witness testimony. Lunt v. Lance, 2008 UT App 192.

The trial court had ample evidence to support its findings. Michael testified as to the content of exhibits 2 and 3 apart from the exhibits themselves. R. 327-28, ll. 21-25, 1-8. R. 326, ll. 4-24. Melinda makes no effort to marshal the evidence in support of the trial court’s ruling. 438 Main St. v, Easy Heat, Inc., 2004 UT 72. There is no legal basis for overturning the trial court’s ruling, regardless of the admission of Michael’s exhibits.

MELINDA’S BRIEF MAY NOT MEET MINIMUM STANDARDS FOR BRIEFING AND ACCURACY PURSUANT TO Utah R. App. P. 24

Melinda’s brief may fail to meet the minimum standards for briefing or accuracy pursuant to Utah R. App. P. 24, and to the extent this court may find that to be the case,

Michael requests his reasonable attorney fees under Utah R. App. P. 24(h). Melinda misstates the record and the basis for the trial court's findings on numerous occasions. Melinda fails to attach the court's findings of fact in her addendum, as required by URAP 24 (a)(12). Melinda claims evidence was not submitted to the commissioner, and fails to include the record of the hearing before the court commissioner. Melinda fails to make reference to any specific objections she made to Michael's proposed exhibits to demonstrate her preservation for claim of error with respect to Rule 108 URCP. Melinda fails to marshal the evidence to demonstrate the facts which support the trial court's findings.

Critically, Melinda states throughout her brief that "Michael introduced evidence of a videotape, a text, and emails, which had never been presented to the Commissioner . . ." (Appellant's Brief at 3, 11, 21, 24-25, 26, 29, 30, 33). Nowhere in Melinda's Brief or Summary of the Case does Melinda note that the trial court was informed that Michael had proffered "lots of evidence" to the commissioner, including "two videos." (R. 302, ll.4-10). Melinda nowhere advises this court that Michael had indicated to the court that evidence submitted would be kept "within the scope of the request for the protective order." (R. 301, ll. 16-17). But most strikingly, nowhere in her Brief or in the Record on Appeal does Melinda present any attempt to delineate what evidence "whether by proffer, testimony, or exhibit" was presented or not presented to the Commissioner to form the basis of an objection pursuant to Rule 108(c), Utah R. Civ. P. In fact, the record is uncontroverted that Michael did in fact proffer his video evidence to the commissioner to avoid conflict with Rule 108(c):

“Q: And did you proffer the video to Commissioner Morgan at the hearing?

A:I did.”

(R. 321, ll. 8-10).

Melinda misrepresents the cause for the court scheduling two days of evidentiary hearing. Michael’s trial counsel was late for the 2nd day of the hearing, on the afternoon of March 28, 2019, after having an issue with another court (R. 295; R. 298, ll. 17-23). The hearing was concluded and the order issued that same day, so this delay did not cause any apparent prejudice to any party, even though they stayed until after 8 pm. (R. 122-125). The hearing was continued to a second date after appellant rested her case in chief after 5 pm on the first hearing date, February 28, 2019. (R. 278, ll.3-18). Inexplicably, Melinda claims that “Judge Edwards conducted [the hearing] on two days rather than one due to Michael’s lawyer showing up very late on the day of the first hearing.” (Appellant’s Brief at 3).

These seem to be blatant and puzzling misstatements of the record to the court of appeals, and appears to be a violation of Utah R. App. P. 24. Failure to adhere to the requirements of Rule 24 “‘increases the costs of litigation for both parties and unduly burdens the judiciary’s time and energy.’ Failure to adhere to the requirements may invite the court to impose serious consequences, such as disregarding or striking the briefs, or assessing attorney fees against the offending lawyer.” In re Pahl, 2007 Ut App 389 ¶ 17 citing State v. Green, 2004 UT 76 ¶ 11.

An appeal without legal or factual basis in the record may be grounds for the award of attorney fees. Porco v. Porco, 752 P.2d 365 (Utah App., 1988). Utah R. App. P. 40(a).

Michael has been forced to re-cite the record in order to accurately present the facts and record of this case to the Court of Appeals. To the extent that this court believes that Melinda’s brief may be deficient, or that it fails to adequately to present any good faith basis for its legal arguments, Michael requests an award of attorney fees, that Melinda’s brief be stricken, or such other relief as the court may deem appropriate.

ATTORNEY FEES FOR FRIVOLOUS APPEAL

Utah R. App. P. 33 provides that “if the court determines that a motion made or appeal taken under these rules is either frivolous or for delay, it shall award just damages, which may include single or double costs, as defined by Rule 34, and / or reasonable attorney fees to the prevailing party.” “For the purposes of these rules, a frivolous motion, appeal, or brief . . . is not grounded in fact, [or] not warranted by existing law Robertson's Marine, Inc. v. 14 Solutions. . .” Utah R. App. P. 33(b). Attorney fees may be awarded in appeal from divorce decree where appeal is frivolous, regardless of trial court’s ruling on fees. Burt v. Burt, 799 P.2d 1166 (Utah 1990). Appeal was frivolous and not warranted in law when appellants “were not forthright in their presentation of facts relevant to appealability of issue they sought to raise.” Debry v. Cascade Enterprises, 935 P.2d 499, rehearing denied (Utah 1997).

In this case, Appellant appeals based on the admission of evidence not proffered to commissioner under Rule 108 (c), when the record indicates the exhibits submitted were actually proffered to the commissioner, R. 302, ll.4-10; R. 324, ll. 16-20; R. 325, ll. 14-24. Appellant did not disclose this in her brief. Appellant did not disclose in her brief that she stipulated to the admission of two of the exhibits, (the only exhibits to which she made a specific objection under rule 108) which she now claims were improperly admitted. R. 344-345, ll. 9-25; 1-3. If the facts of the case were properly presented in appellant’s brief, it would be clear under existing law that appellant did not object to any exhibits under Rule 108, the exhibits which were admitted had been proffered to the commissioner in compliance with Rule 108 (c), and the exhibits had been admitted by stipulation. On that set of facts on review of the record, Appellant could present no good faith legal argument for the exclusion of any exhibits under Rule 108. Yet appellant presents a brief which neglects to include any of those facts in the record, fails to include any portions of the transcript relating to her objections in the addendum, and then misrepresents the record of her objections to the appellate court. Under these circumstances Appellee believes an award of attorney fees and costs pursuant to U.R.A.P. 33 is warranted.

CONCLUSION

Appellee Michael Watson respectfully requests that the Court of Appeals deny Appellant Melinda Watson’s appeal. All exhibits complained of by Appellant were admitted without relevant objection or by stipulation, which was not disclosed to this court in Appellant’s brief. If appropriate as requested herein, Michael Watson requests his attorney fees and costs on appeal.

ADDENDUM

EXHIBIT A

1 say. Hey, she's a bad person. This judge sent her 2 to jail for 30 days so, therefore, Judge, you got to 3 do the same thing. You got to blow this off. This 4 woman doesn't have any credibility. That's what 5 they're trying to say to you.

6 The question is: Is the evidence under 7 the preponderance standard more likely than not that 8 this man committed domestic violence repeatedly 9 against this woman? That's what the question is.
10 And that's a determination you're going to have to 11 make. And I would say on the evidence before the 12 Court that there is plenty of evidence that indicates 13 that this happened.

14 Let me see if there's anything else here,
15 Your Honor.

16 That's all I have to say, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Thank you. The Court is 18 prepared to issue its ruling in the matter of Watson
19 versus Watson case number 184701858.

20 The Court has carefully considered the 21 evidence and the arguments of the parties and their 22 counsel, both today and on February 28, 2019.

23 I've got 15 pages of handwritten notes of 24 the testimony of the different rulings I made, the 25 different exhibits that were admitted, et cetera. I

1 am prepared to rule.

2           This is a hard situation for both of you 3 parties. And I feel for both of you. I feel,
4 perhaps, most poignantly for your children. I'm a 5 father of five and a grandfather of three now. Thank 6 God I've lived long enough to see all this. But let 7 me tell you that I would just say, that it's worth 8 whatever efforts you two can make to make sure that 9 your sweet children are insulated from this as much 10 as possible. When I say "this," I'm not really so 11 much addressing just the conduct that's alleged here
12 in both directions, I'm talking about everything 13 that's gone on since this divorce in 2016. I think 14 for there to be peace for the sake of your children, 15 both of you have to decide to stop. Stop the back 16 and forth and the comments and the different things 17 that are raising contention between the two of you.
18 I hope you'll do it for the sake of the children.

19           But that's not my duty here today. My 20 duty is to rule on this objection. As is already 21 mentioned, Commissioner Morgan entered on December 22 17th, 2018 a protective order. Sometimes we refer to 23 it as a bare bones protective order or the 24 restraining order provision. The main provision is 25 the only thing that's entered in the protective

1 order, nothing else.

2 I have considered all of the evidence.
3 And I did so because I thought it was only fair to 4 both of you for me to consider all sides of this, 5 because the issues here are important. And they are 6 long lasting.

7 So without further ado, I will turn to my 8 analysis.

9 I do find, first of all, that it's up to 10 the Court to make independent findings of facts and 11 conclusions of law. And I will do my best to do that 12 in the context of the statute -- statutes, rather, 13 that we're dealing with and try to help bring clarity 14 to a difficult situation.

15 First of all, the Court finds that the 16 appropriate standard for the Court to apply is a 17 preponderance of the evidence standard. And 18 petitioner has the burden of proving beyond a 19 reasonable doubt that each element of the protective 20 order statute has been satisfied.

21 MR. WECKEL: Your Honor, did you say
22 beyond a reasonable doubt?

23 THE COURT: If I said that, I meant to say
24 by a preponderance of the evidence. It's not beyond 25 a reasonable doubt. It's not clear and convincing

1 evidence. It is by a preponderance of the evidence.
2 And that is established in our law.

3 The first issue is whether or not these 4 parties are cohabitants. That issue is not disputed.
5 They are cohabitants, having formerly been married 6 and having three children together.

7 The next issue is whether the evidence
8 presented by petitioner is to the -- to the effect 9 that -- or sufficient to allow the Court to conclude 10 by a preponderance of the evidence that she's been 11 subjected to abuse or domestic violence or to whom 12 there is a substantial likelihood of abuse or 13 domestic violence.

14 So let me turn to that analysis. First of 15 all, on the issue of abuse as that is defined in our 16 statute. Abuse under Utah code 78B-7-102 subsection 17 1, abuse means intentionally or knowingly cause or 18 attempting to cause a cohabitant physical harm or 19 intentionally or knowingly placing a cohabitant in 20 reasonable fear of imminent physical harm.

21 I'm going to find that there isn't any 22 evidence presented by the parties that would lead the 23 Court to conclude by a preponderance of the evidence 24 that abuse has occurred.

25 So that leads the Court to answer the

1 question of whether or not domestic violence has been 2 proved by a preponderance of the evidence. Under the 3 protective order statute, which is the same section I 4 was talking about, under subsection 5 it says, 5 "domestic violence," and it says it means the same as 6 that term is defined in section 77-36-1, as we 7 discussed previously.

8 So turning to 77-36-1, the Court finds
9 that the subsection 4 defines domestic violence. It 10 says, "Domestic violence or domestic violence offense 11 means any criminal offense involving violence or 12 physical harm or threat of violence or physical harm 13 or any attempt, conspiracy or solicitation to commit 14 a criminal offense involving violence or physical 15 harm when committed by one cohabitant against 16 another. Domestic violence or domestic violence 17 offense also means commission or attempt to commit 18 any of the following offenses by one cohabitant 19 against another."

20 And I need to go through these one at a 21 time. They are subsections A through Y.

22 Aggravated assault is A. That's not 23 alleged.

24 B, assault is alleged, but I'm finding 25 that the facts presented by the parties do not

1 support the Court in concluding by a preponderance of 2 the evidence that the respondent assaulted the 3 petitioner.

4 C, criminal homicide is not alleged.

5 D, harassment is alleged, so I will turn
6 to that section, which is 76-5-106. That section 7 says, "A person is guilty of harassment if with 8 intent to frighten or harass another he communicates 9 a written or recorded threat to commit any violent 10 felony."

11 Though Mr. Weckel alleged that applied, 12 I'm finding that that simply doesn't apply, given the 13 facts that have been presented to the Court.

14 E is electronic communication harassment.
15 I'm also going to find that doesn't apply, given the 16 evidence presented to the Court. At least there 17 isn't sufficient evidence that would allow the Court 18 to conclude by a preponderance of the evidence that 19 electronic communication harassment has occurred.

20 And let me review that code section, as 21 well, just to clarify for the record what I'm ruling.
22 That's under 76-9-201 of our code. Turning to that 23 section, it says -- there's a number of definitions
24 and things. But the core of it is under subsection 25 2. And it says, "A person is guilty of electronic

1 communication harassment and subject to prosecution
2 in the jurisdiction where the communication 3 originated or was received if with intent to 4 intimidate abuse, threaten or disrupt the electronic 5 communications of another person -- the person, A, 6 one, makes repeated contact by means of electronic 7 communications regardless of whether a conversation 8 ensues or, two, after the recipient has requested or 9 informed the person not to contact the recipient and 10 the person repeatedly or continuously, A, contacts 11 the electronic communication device of the recipient 12 or, B, causes an electronic communication device of 13 the recipient to ring or to receive other 14 notification of attempted contact by means of 15 electronic communication.

16           Then under subsection B, makes contacts by 17 means of electronic communication and insults, taunts 18 or challenges, the recipient of the communication or 19 any person at the receiving location in a manner 20 likely to provoke a violent or disorderly response.
21 C, makes contact by means of electronic communication 22 and threatens to inflict injury, physical harm or 23 damage to any person or the property of any person.
24 D, causes disruption, jamming or overload of an 25 electronic communication system through excessive

1 message traffic or other means utilizing an 2 electronic communication device. Or E, 3 electronically publishes, posts or otherwise
4 discloses personal identifying information of another 5 person in a public online site or forum without that 6 person's permission.

7 I'm specifically finding that that does 8 not apply to the facts that have been presented to 9 the Court in this case.

10 F is kidnapping, child kidnapping or 11 aggravated kidnapping. That's not alleged.

12 G, mayhem, is not alleged.

13 H, sexual offenses are not alleged with 14 the exception of voyeurism. And let me turn to that 15 briefly.

16 Voyeurism is analyzed under Utah code
17 76-9-702.7. Under subsection 1, I'm specifically 18 finding this does not apply to the facts of this case 19 for the following reasons. It says, "A person is 20 guilty of voyeurism who intentionally, using any type 21 of technology to secretly or surreptitiously record 22 video of a person -- video of a person, A, for the 23 purpose of viewing any portion of the individual's 24 body regarding which the individual has a reasonable 25 expectation of privacy whether or not that portion of 1 the body is covered with clothing. B, without the 2 knowledge or consent of the individual. And C, under 3 circumstances in which the individual has a 4 reasonable expectation of privacy."

5 I'm finding that in a situation where the 6 evidence before the Court is the parties -- even 7 accepting petitioner's allegation at face value, the 8 parties were a married couple at the time living 9 together. There isn't a reasonable expectation of 10 privacy in that circumstance. And so I'm finding 11 that that statute is inapplicable to the facts of our 12 case and is not justified, given the facts that 13 husbands and wives commonly are in a state of undress 14 in each other's presence to. Each their own, I 15 suppose, in some ways. But some people I know take 16 pictures of the other person and keep them. I won't 17 opine as to that, but I'm just saying that I don't 18 think there's a reasonable expectation of privacy in 19 that circumstance. So I'm finding that section 20 inapplicable.

21 And I'm finding the remainder of sexual 22 offenses inapplicable, as well.

23 I is stalking. I will analyze that 24 separately in a moment.

25 J is unlawful detention or unlawful

1 detention of a minor. That doesn't apply.

2 K is violation of a protective order or ex
3 parte protective order. It doesn't apply.

4 L is any offense against property
5 described in title 76, chapter 6, part 1. Property 6 disruption title 76, chapter 6, part 2, burglary and 7 criminal trespass or title 76, chapter 6, part 3 8 robbery.

9 So let me deal with that -- each of those 10 in turn. First, 76-6 -- let me turn to that so we're 11 all reviewing the same thing. Dash 106, specifically 12 criminal mischief has been alleged as far as the 13 damage to the van. Let me say the Court finds that 14 the evidence, obviously, clearly disputed there where 15 petitioner is adamant that the roof of the party's 16 van was hit and damaged by the respondent. The 17 respondent adamantly denies that.

18 But I think, importantly, here in this 19 case the Court finds there was no damage to the 20 vehicle because by the time the police arrived, what 21 was testified to was they couldn't see any damage to 22 the vehicle. I believe petitioner's testimony was 23 that the respondent had popped the dent back out so 24 they couldn't see it. Be that as it may, the Court 25 finds that these are the elements that are applicable

1 under 106 and it says, "A person" -- under subsection 2 2, "A person who commits criminal mischief if the 3 person" -- and it's subsection under that under 4 (2)(c), "Intentionally damages, defaces or destroys 5 the property of another." That's the applicable 6 section.

7 And here again, I'm finding specifically 8 that there is no destruction, damage, defacement or 9 destruction of the property in question. The police 10 couldn't tell that there'd been any unlawful contact 11 with the vehicle. And so the Court finds that 12 section inapplicable.

13 Which leads me next to the burglary or 14 criminal trespass under 76-6 subsection 206.

15 Let me find in this area specifically that 16 it's been controverted whether or not the respondent 17 actually entered petitioner's home in violation of 18 this code section. But I will find that there was no 19 criminal intent. And I'll also find there's been no 20 evidence as to his being given notice that he wasn't 21 welcome to go in the home.

22 Specifically, it says, "A person is guilty 23 of criminal trespass if under circumstances not 24 amounting to burglary subsection A, the person enters 25 or remains unlawfully on or causes a manned aircraft

1 to enter and remain unlawfully over property and one 2 intends to cause annoyance or injury to any person or 3 damage to any property, including the use of 4 graffiti." I find there's no evidence to support 5 that, at least not to a preponderance of the 6 evidence.

7 Two, intends to commit any crime, other 8 than theft or a felony, which I'm finding 9 specifically there isn't evidence to support that, or 10 is reckless as to whether the persons or unmanned 11 aircraft's presence will cause fear for the safety of 12 another. I am also finding that not to apply.

13 So I'm finding that criminal trespass has 14 not been proved by a preponderance of the evidence.

15 And subsection L of the domestic violence
16 code does not apply.

17 Subsection M, possession of a deadly
18 weapon with criminal intent as described in section 19 76-10-507. It's not alleged and it doesn't apply.

20 Subsection N is discharge of a vehicle
21 from -- excuse me, discharge of a firearm from a 22 vehicle. It doesn't apply.

23 O, disorderly conduct. Now, that's a -- 24 conviction of disorderly conduct is the result of a 25 plea agreement in which the defendant was originally

1 charged with a domestic violence offense, otherwise
2 described in this subsection 4, except that a 3 conviction of disorderly conduct as a domestic 4 violence offense in the manner described in this 5 subsection (4)(0) does not constitute a misdemeanor
6 crime of domestic violence. So I don't think this 7 applies.

8 I think both parties have engaged in talk 9 back and forth that I guess could be argued to be 10 disorderly. But I think in the context of what the 11 parties have been going through in a high conflict 12 divorce, I don't find that the evidence is sufficient 13 to support by a preponderance of the evidence that 14 the respondent has committed disorderly conduct in 15 regard to the petitioner in this case.

16 P, child abuse. It's been alleged. I'm 17 finding as a matter of fact that it's disputed as to 18 whether or not S.W., the parties' child, was ever 19 pushed by the respondent and thus caused to fall into 20 a banister and get bruising of physical injury that 21 would satisfy, technically, the child abuse statute.
22 I'm finding that the evidence does not support, by a 23 preponderance of the evidence, the conclusion that he 24 made that pushing. So I'm finding that section 25 inapplicable to the Court's conclusions here.

1           Q is threatening the use of a dangerous
2 weapon; not alleged and it does not apply.

3           R, threatening violence. I'm finding the 4 evidence does not support a conclusion under that 5 section.

6           S, tampering with a witness; not alleged 7 and does not apply.

8           T, retaliation against a witness or a 9 victim; not alleged and does not apply.

10          U, unlawful distribution of an intimate 11 image. It does not apply, under the findings I 12 already made under the voyeurism. There's no 13 evidence here that the respondent distributed that 14 intimate image.

15          V, sexual battery; not alleged and does 16 not apply.

17          W, voyeurism. I've already analyzed that 18 separately above under the sex offenses.

19          X, damage to or interruption of a 20 communication device; not alleged and doesn't apply.

21          And then it says an offense described in 22 section 77-20-3.5. Turning to that, quickly, so we 23 can get on to the stalking analysis. That is the 24 conditions for release after arrest for domestic 25 violence and other offenses or a jail release

1 agreement. That doesn't apply. It's not alleged in 2 this case.

3 So the Court needs to decide clearly under 4 subsection I or India of Utah code 77-36-1 subsection
5 (4)(I), whether or not stalking has been proved by a 6 preponderance of the evidence.

7 Here's what I find: I find that the 8 parties have been involved in a high-conflict divorce 9 situation since 2016. I find that there's been 10 regrettable conduct on the part of both parties in 11 regard to their relationship and their co-parenting.
12 I find that they have -- petitioner and respondent 13 have communicated with each other in ways that are 14 regrettable. I find that there has been some bending 15 or breaking of the Court's orders by both parties 16 that, again, are regrettable. But that's been dealt 17 with in other forum.

18 But the bottom line of that is it's led to 19 a situation where the parties are so at odds with 20 each other that they're in the business of regularly 21 collecting evidence against each other for their own 22 benefit in the litigation involving their children 23 and their divorce. The Court wishes this were not 24 the case. But that's a crucial fact because the 25 Court analyzes the objective/subjective or

1 individualized objective standard set forth in Baird
2 v. Baird in that context. In other words, I can't 3 analyze the interactions of these parties in a vacuum 4 pretending that they don't have any prior 5 interactions or that there's been no prior problem or 6 anything like that. This is a situation where these 7 parties have been interacting in a very difficult 8 fashion for a long time, and it's uncontroverted; at 9 least since their divorce in 2016, of course, there 10 were events that led up to the divorce or they 11 wouldn't be divorced.

12 So the Court finds that context is crucial 13 to the Court's conclusion in this case.

14 And turning to the stalking section, it's 15 76-5-106.5, as has already been cited. And there's 16 been much discussion here. Of course, importantly, 17 the Court has the discussed course of conduct. It 18 means two or more acts directed at or towards a 19 specific person. And it gives a litany of things 20 that can apply here.

21 But the Court finds that there is a course 22 of conduct if you just consider that term in and of 23 itself. You know, the respondent has definitely 24 allegedly -- and there's been evidence presented by 25 the petitioner that he has taken pictures of her or

1     videod her on different occasions.  He's even 2     admitted to some of that.  We have video of it 3     happening, actually, that's been presented in 4     respondent's Exhibits 3 and 4 which the Court has 5     considered, of course.

6             But anyway, there's sufficient here that 7     if a course of conduct were all that were required, 8     then the Court would find that a stalking injunction 9     would be appropriate, thus that domestic violence has 10    occurred and that this protective order is 11    appropriate.  However, the course of conduct that the 12    respondent has engaged in and, frankly, that the 13    petitioner has engaged in is in the context of a 14    high-conflict divorce.  And so the Court has to turn 15    to the rest of the statute.

16            And that is under subsection 2 of the 17    previously cited statute.  It says, "A person is 18    guilty of stalking who intentionally or knowingly 19    engages in a course of conduct directed at a specific 20    person and knows or should know that the course of 21    conduct would cause a reasonable person, A, to fear 22    for the person's own safety or the safety of a third 23    person or, B, to suffer other emotional distress."

24            The Court finds that given the course of 25    conduct between the parties before and after their

1 divorce, that the course of conduct engaged in by the 2 respondent was not such so that it would -- he should 3 know -- know or should know that it would cause a 4 reasonable person in petitioner's circumstance to 5 fear for the person's own safety or the safety of a 6 third person.

7 I rely on a number of things for that.
8 First of all, I rely on the videos that were 9 presented as respondent's Exhibits 3 and 4. Or was 10 it 2 and 3? Whatever the numbers were.

11 MR. PETERSON: Two and 3, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: You're right. It's 2 and 3.
13 I don't want to misspeak. Exhibits 2 and 3. The 14 videos show very clearly, again, what I think is 15 regrettable conduct. I wish people weren't technical 16 with each other. I wish if someone arrived 10 or 15 17 minutes early for their parent time that the other 18 parent would let the kid go. I mean, in a perfect 19 world, you work with each other like that. I'm not 20 opining that what happened there was great. I think 21 it's regrettable.

22 But importantly, petitioner came to 23 respondent's house, as she admitted and as respondent
24 testified, she regularly did. And that supports a 25 conclusion that she was not in fear for her own

1 safety or for the safety of others. She waited there 2 for quite a long time until at the strike of the hour 3 at nine o'clock the respondent let the boy go, their 4 child go, and he went out to his sister.

5 But the respondent did come out and he -- 6 I know there's a special master order that says he 7 should stay in the house. But I find that he stayed 8 in close proximity to his house. He was right there 9 on or near his property. He didn't walk out to the 10 road. He videotaped from up on or near his property 11 facing the petitioner's car. And as argued, 12 petitioner both photographed and videoed him in 13 response. That's the best evidence I have.

14 And she didn't quickly take off like a 15 person who was scared or worried would do. She 16 slowly backed out, slowly drove down the street, 17 turned and went away. And meanwhile, the respondent 18 walked back to his front door, but at all times 19 remained in close proximity to his home. That's 20 powerful evidence that the petitioner was not in fear 21 for her own safety or the safety of a third person.

22 And that the conduct involved in -- 23 engaged in this course of conduct engaged in by the 24 respondent was objectionable to the petitioner. She 25 didn't like it. But it was not such that would cause

1 a reasonable person in her circumstances to fear for 2 her own safety or the safety of a third person.
3 Actually, to the contrary, you can tell from the way 4 the parties carried on in that video it's something 5 they were painfully used to. It was normal for them, 6 which is unfortunate, but nonetheless, it is the 7 case.

8           So I turn my analysis to subsection B.
9 Should the respondent have known that what he was 10 doing caused a person -- a reasonable person in 11 respondent -- excuse me, in petitioner's circumstance 12 to suffer other emotional distress. I can tell from 13 Commissioner Morgan's ruling that he thought that the 14 petitioner was entitled -- or that the Court should 15 consider her as a person with particular needs or a 16 vulnerability. I'm not finding that to be the case
17 as in regards to this. I think that both parties 18 have engaged in banter back and forth that could stir 19 the other party up. But it nonetheless has been 20 their course of conduct.

21           For example, in respondent's Exhibit 1, 22 the last text message sent by the petitioner, when 23 she says, "So I'll have time to wait around and play 24 your games. I hope Ilene is up for it. Give her my 25 condolences." I just -- I find that where that's the

1 case and respondent's Exhibit 4 where she e-mails -- 2 where the petitioner e-mails respondent on September 3 29th, 2018 -- not long, frankly, before this 4 protective order was filed in November of 2018. At 5 any rate, she e-mails and says that she's going to 6 come sit by him. This is not the conduct of a person 7 that's been unduly distressed by his behavior. She's 8 not being emotionally distressed by that. Rather, 9 this is, again, something that the video or 10 photographing of her or at least what she thought was 11 happening, again, that evidence is disputed. But 12 that was what she thought was happening. And that -- 13 what's happening before this e-mail was sent, as I 14 understand the evidence, is that -- I mean, in the 15 soccer season of 2017, 2018.

16 And so all things considered, respondent's 17 course of conduct was not such that he knew or should 18 have known that it would cause a reasonable person in 19 petitioner's circumstances applying, once again, the 20 standard of Baird versus Baird would suffer other 21 emotional distress.

22 Given those findings of fact and 23 conclusions of law, I'm ordering that that previously 24 entered protective order be set aside and dismissed.
25 And of course, Mr. Weckel, you and your client have

1 the right to appeal that decision as established by 2 law.

3 Does any -- either party require any 4 clarification of the Court's order?

5 MR. PETERSON: No, Your Honor.

6 (Multiple voices.)

7 MR. WECKEL: One thing I would say, 8 though, Your Honor, I do ask for clarification on the 9 standard that you used because I don't think it's a 10 reasonable person in the context of a particular 11 person because that would be a subjective standard.

12 THE COURT: They call it the 13 individualized objective standard in the case Baird 14 versus Baird. And I'll read it to you. It says, "In 15 applying an individualized objective standard, the 16 courts consider several factors, such as the victim's 17 background, the victim's knowledge of the 18 relationship with the defendant, any history of abuse 19 between the parties, the location of the alleged 20 stalking and its proximity to the victim's children, 21 if any, and the accumulative effect of the 22 defendant's repetitive conduct."

23 So it's a -- it's the -- it used to be 24 called the subjective/objective, but they call it an 25 individualized objective standard now. And that's

1 the standard I have applied.

2 MR. WECKEL: Right. I mean, you could --
3 and I respect what you're saying. I'm just saying 4 that that particular standard, you could look at it 5 either way. You could say that there's a 6 callousness, you know, that has occurred over time as 7 how you're interpreting it. It also could mean that 8 a person is more afraid because of all of the things 9 that have happened, so --

10 THE COURT: That's correct, Mr. Weckel.
11 And I -- I am finding specifically that the 12 petitioner was not afraid given the correspondence 13 between the parties that I've been made aware of.
14 Given her behavior, she -- her conduct was exactly 15 inapposite and contrary to her being afraid or to be 16 suffering other emotional distress other than because 17 of the angst the parties have with each other from 18 the byproducts of their high -- highly contested and 19 high-conflict divorce.

20 Any other clarifications needed by the 21 parties?

22 MR. PETERSON: Just a question as to where 23 we go from here. Do we need an initial order, a 24 minute entry? Will the Court prepare an order?
25 What's the Court's preference for getting a clear

1 indication of what happened.

2 THE COURT: It depends on what the parties
3 want. If Mr. Weckel and his client intend to appeal 4 the Court's ruling, then we probably need to reduce 5 my ruling to a written findings and conclusions and 6 order.

7 If not, I can simply print and fill out 8 and sign a protective order dismissal form.

9 MR. PETERSON: We'd be fine with that.

10 THE COURT: If it was done online. But --

11 MR. WECKEL: Let me ask my client.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 (Discussion off the record.)

14 THE COURT: The clerk informs me that 15 given the Court's ruling on the record tonight, 16 she'll be removing the protective order from the 17 statewide system before we leave.

18 MR. WECKEL: Your Honor, if you make 19 detailed minute entry, we have the tape as to what 20 your ruling is. If you feel -- I'm not sure at this 21 point if we want to file an appeal, but you have the 22 tape there and you have your notes. I mean, if you 23 want to reduce them to a minute entry --

24 THE COURT: I'm not going to prepare a 25 written ruling of my decision. If the parties want

1 to do that, you're welcome to do that.

2 MR. WECKEL: Oh, to prepare --

3 THE COURT: I'm not going to take the time
4 to prepare a written ruling. I've made my ruling.
5 I've been very detailed, I believe, in my findings 6 and conclusions.

7 MR. WECKEL: Yeah.

8 THE COURT: I'm not going to take the time
9 to reduce it to writing. I've already spent --

10 MR. WECKEL: Sure.

11 THE COURT: -- a lot of time on this case, 12 so --

13 MR. WECKEL: No, I understand. And I
14 think that. I think the record -- you know, your 15 reciting it on the record is we could get a 16 transcript of that and --

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MR. WECKEL: -- you know, I think that's 19 --

20 THE COURT: And I'll simply do that, if 21 it's not objectionable to the parties, then, I will 22 have the clerk print me off a stalking in -- excuse 23 me, a protective order dismissal form and then I'll 24 fill that out and I'll sign it and we'll go from 25 there.

EXHIBIT C

1 that was elicited went beyond what was written in the 2 request for the protective order. I think my client 3 has a chance to respond.

4           Additionally, when we were before the 5 commissioner, we proffered a lot of evidence, 6 including -- in fact, we had a video that we offered 7 to show Commissioner Morgan. I declined -- or two 8 videos. He declined to see those. We have those 9 here today. As well as a meaningful response to the 10 issues that Mr. Weckel brought up previously.

11           MR. WECKEL: Your Honor, may I respond to 12 that? First of all --

13           THE COURT: Briefly, yes. We're running 14 out of time already, so --

15           MR. WECKEL: Yeah. The de novo concept
16 has nothing to do with evidence. What it has to do 17 with under the hearing -- or the ruling in Davey
18 Barnes(ph), which is a recent Court of Appeals 19 opinion, means that you can't rely on what the 20 commissioner did. This is a new day in court.
21 You're the new judge. And you can make a 22 determination and not rely upon what the commissioner 23 (inaudible) nothing to do with the amount of 24 evidence.

25           Rule 108 has to do with the evidence. And

1 what happened in the last hearing, Your Honor, is we 2 elicited testimony and some documentary evidence 3 associated with the request for a protective order.
4 It was very restricted.

5 As you may recall, cross-examination of 6 the witness lasted, my recollection, is approximately 7 two hours. I mean, my direct examination was very 8 limited. I think it was about 30 minutes. And then 9 the cross-examination is what dragged this thing on 10 so long. All right.

11 So that has nothing to do with my client 12 trying to put -- we're trying to get this over with 13 and trying to put on evidence in an efficient manner.
14 And now what's happening is because the 15 cross-examination was so long, we had to reschedule 16 the hearing, you know, for another part of it. And 17 then because -- and I'm not faulting counsel 18 specifically, but I mean, calendaring two hearings on 19 the same day, now we're limited to 3:15 starting 20 here. And now we want to bring in all kinds of other 21 evidence which was not part of the original thing, 22 violates the notice requirement in Rule 108.

23 Now, the Court, in its discretion, can 24 consider in the sake of judicial economy if it wants 25 to hear more evidence. But, you know, we're not

1 prepared to address all of these other things that he 2 may want to bring in at this time. And I'm just 3 bringing that up to the Court, so --

4 THE COURT: Well, let's cross that bridge
5 when we get there, counsel.

6 For now, I do think it's a de novo 7 hearing. I do think that with what has been 8 presented by the petitioner, the respondent has a 9 fair opportunity here to respond to that evidence and 10 present what he needs to present.

11 I'm not going to make any preliminary 12 rulings. We'll deal with any objections as they come 13 up. And let's proceed so we can get done today, 14 shall we?

15 Mr. Weckel, did you have anything else 16 that you were going to present on behalf of your 17 client?

18 MR. WECKEL: No, Your Honor. We had 19 rested. We were waiting for the other party to 20 present their evidence.

21 THE COURT: Okay. If that's the case,
22 then, Mr. Peterson, take it away.

23 MR. PETERSON: Thank you, Your Honor. We 24 call Mr. Michael Watson to the stand.

25 THE COURT: Mr. Watson, please step up to 1 police officer in Lehi for over an hour of why she 2 should get to do it at my home and not have to --

3 MR. PETERSON: May I approach, Your Honor?

4 THE COURT: Please.

5 MR. WECKEL: Can this be marked as an 6 exhibit, please?

7 THE COURT: I take it it hasn't been 8 marked?

9 MR. PETERSON: It hasn't been marked yet.
10 When we go to admit it, we can mark it, unless the 11 Court would like us to admit them in -- mark them in 12 advance.

13 THE COURT: Well, it's just convenient for 14 reference purposes. But Counsel, that's the only 15 thing I'm thinking, but --

16 MR. PETERSON: I'm happy to do that. Do 17 you have stickers or do you want me to just write on 18 -- I'm sorry. I don't mean to be presumptive.

19 THE COURT: Just want to keep it easy for 20 everyone's reference.

21 MR. PETERSON: That's fair, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: I'm happy to write on my copy.
23 What are you --

24 MR. PETERSON: This will be marked Exhibit
25 Number 1.

1 Q. (By Mr. Peterson) Mr. Watson, can you 2 tell us what that is?

3 A. This is the text I received from 4 Ms. Watson on June 15th or on or about June 15th.

5 Q. And how do you know it was received on or 6 about June 15th?

7 A. Because I took a screen shot of this text 8 on June 15th.

9 Q. And tell us who's communicating with who.

10 A. This is Melinda talking to me.

11 Q. And what does she say?

12 A. Here at the bottom she says, "FYI --

13 Q. Let's read the whole thing.

14 A. Oh, the whole thing. Okay. So it says, 15 "D.W.'s phone has been turned off for quite some time 16 now. D.W. just told me that he was forced to turn 17 off his cell phone. This is a violation of the 18 decree. FYI, I am planning on residential pickups 19 during the summer. I don't have many 20 responsibilities on Friday, so I'll have time to wait 21 around and play your games. I hope Ilene is up for 22 it. Give her my condolences."

23 Q. What's your interpretation of that text 24 message, Mr. Watson?

25 A. It means she doesn't intend to comply with

1 my wishes to have the exchanges be done at the police 2 station.

3 Q. In your opinion, does that text message
4 convey any concern about her being at your home?

5 A. No.

6 MR. WECKEL: Your Honor, I'm going to 7 object to this evidence. This is -- if anything, 8 this is a contempt issue regarding her not obeying 9 the Court order. It has nothing to do with what 10 we're here for today, which is a protective order in 11 terms of what she's asking about as far as following 12 and stalking him -- her, that type of thing. And so 13 I think it muddies the water. It's kind of like 14 throwing mud at the wall and seeing what's going to 15 stick and trying to disparage her character by bad 16 acts. But it doesn't have anything to do with the 17 protective order.

18 Now, they -- they could have a -- you 19 know, they could file a contempt action and try to 20 say that she violated the Court order. But I don't 21 see what the materiality of this is.

22 THE COURT: Counsel.

23 MR. PETERSON: This is, very simply, Your 24 Honor -- that was a very lengthy objection, so I'll 25 try to respond what I think it was, which is that

1 this is irrelevant.

2 Ms. Watson testified extensively that she 3 was terrified of my client. She testified 4 extensively that her interactions with him were 5 horrific. She introduced numerous bits of evidence 6 going back to 2008 about the things that my client 7 had allegedly done to her that caused her tremendous 8 concern. And yet she's saying, "I'm going to come to 9 your house and play games." I think this goes 10 directly to whether or not she was quote, unquote 11 terrified by my client or concerned about her 12 interactions. He testified he's been asking her to 13 do exchanges at a safe place. She was insisting on 14 doing the exchanges at his home.

15 THE COURT: I'm going to overrule the 16 objection. I think it's relevant.

17 MR. PETERSON: Thank you.

18 THE COURT: And material.

19 Q. (By Mr. Peterson) So tell us what your 20 interpretation is of that exhibit, Mr. Watson?

21 A. She's obviously not intent on, you know, 22 protecting herself. She intends to come to my house, 23 against my wishes.

24 Q. So after you moved down to Lehi, between 25 then and the events that were alleged in this

1 Q. And why did you take video of her on this 2 occasion?

3 A. Because I have a security camera on my 4 house that's pointed at my driveway because she was 5 continually coming into my driveway onto my property, 6 so I set the security camera to face my driveway. So 7 when she noticed the security camera, she started 8 parking in the neighbor's driveway.

9 Q. Okay. I want to back up for a second and 10 get some context. October 31st was what day?

11 A. It was Wednesday.

12 Q. And you had parent time that day?

13 A. Yes.

14 Q. And you were with your son D.W., correct?

15 A. Yes. Correct.

16 Q. Okay. What time did Melinda show up to 17 get your son D.W.?

18 A. She showed up 15 minutes early.

19 Q. And what did she do when she showed up?

20 A. She started honking her horn.

21 Q. Was this unusual to you or concerning to?

22 A. Yes, because it was incessant for several 23 minutes straight.

24 Q. Did she make any effort to contact you at 25 all?

1 do have an objection.

2 THE COURT: Okay. What's that?

3 MR. WECKEL: This is what I'm talking
4 about. First of all, we've had a month, you know, 5 between hearings, okay. So if counsel wanted to 6 introduce this evidence, what would be fair is to 7 provide me with a copy of the video so you can review 8 it rather than surprising me with it during the 9 course of the hearing. And this is the heart of Rule 10 108. Rule 108 says that you shall not present any 11 evidence to the judge which was not presented to the 12 commissioner. And in the sake of judicial economy, 13 I'm quoting from paragraph C, the Court can -- may, 14 in its discretion, consider new evidence.

15 But Your Honor, in this particular case, 16 you know, it would be one thing if we just scheduled 17 this hearing and, you know, we're all there the first 18 time. We've had a month later postponing this thing.
19 I don't know why this wasn't given to me, other than 20 the fact of springing it upon us during the course of 21 this hearing and surprising us and not giving me an 22 opportunity to prepare any type of examination.

23 That's the only point I think that could 24 be made in doing it like that. Otherwise, if you 25 want to be fair about it, you would have said, well,

1 I'm going to be using this exhibit, here it is and 2 let's exchange it and you can prepare, et cetera.

3 So in terms of a fair hearing, Your Honor,
4 I don't think it's fair. I don't think it complies 5 with Rule 108. I think it's fair to schedule two 6 hearings, one starting, you know, within a couple 7 hours over the lunch hour from the hearing that we 8 have now so that it -- you know, we now go in 9 starting at 3:15, that's all that stuff, come on, I'm 10 just asking for fairness, okay.

11 And I -- so I object to this presentation.

12 THE COURT: What's your response,
13 Mr. Peterson?

14 MR. PETERSON: My response, Your Honor,
15 is, first of all, I resent the imputation of improper 16 motives by Mr. Weckel. This is an objection hearing 17 of a commissioner's recommendation. All this 18 evidence was proffered in great detail before the 19 hearing and these things are typically handled this 20 way. There wasn't a pretrial order. There wasn't an 21 exchange of witnesses or exhibits on the part of 22 either party. Mr. Weckel himself introduced evidence 23 last time that I had -- don't recall having seen 24 before. This is not an ambush, this is not a 25 surprise. The -- Ms. Watson -- I can't remember if

1 arguments of both parties. I think it's evidence the 2 Court needs to see because, frankly, the credibility 3 of the witnesses is one of the things that my 4 decision is going to have to hinge on, obviously, in 5 deciding whether or not stalking occurred to justify 6 the entry of a protective order. I think video 7 evidence will be helpful to the Court in making that 8 determination.

9 And where it was proffered to the 10 commissioner but the commissioner declined to hear 11 it, I don't find that binds me as far as what 12 evidence I choose to hear. And so in the interest of 13 being complete and fair to both parties, I want to 14 hear the evidence.

15 Now, the other question is -- so the 16 objection is overruled.

17 How are we going to set it up so that 18 everyone can see it.

19 MR. PETERSON: Well, I think, Your Honor, 20 that my client can set it here. He can certainly 21 come around. He can set it on the corner.

22 Mr. Weckel and I could both see, Ms. Watson, as well.

23 THE COURT: Can you bring this -- that TV
24 that we have? We have a larger TV if we could hook 25 it up to that, that might be better. That way

1 (Video recording continues.)

2 Q. Okay. Why don't you skip it ahead to the 3 last 30 seconds or so.

4 MR. WECKEL: I object. I want to watch.

5 MR. PETERSON: Okay. We'll watch the 6 entire thing.

7 (Video recording continues.)

8 Q. (By Mr. Peterson) I'm going to pause for 9 a second, Mr. Watson.

10 (Video recording paused.)

11 Q. (By Mr. Peterson) How long had that video 12 been going at that -- sorry, how long had the 13 behavior been happening at this point?

14 A. At this point, it was probably closer to 15 12 minutes, 13 minutes.

16 Q. And was it like this the entire time?

17 A. Yeah.

18 Q. Okay. Go ahead.

19 (Video recording played.)

20 Q. (By Mr. Peterson) Okay. One moment.
21 Stop.

22 (Video recording stopped.)

23 Q. (By Mr. Peterson) Why did it change right 24 there?

25 A. It changed right there because I put a

1 THE COURT: Do you have those we can mark, 2 then?

3 Q. (By Mr. Peterson) You've got the disc, 4 correct?

5 A. I have a disc, yes. I can put them on the 6 disc.

7 Q. Okay.

8 A. I can grab that.

9 THE COURT: While he's preparing that,
10 Mr. Weckel, do you have any objection to the proffer 11 -- admission of Exhibits 2 and 3?

12 MR. WECKEL: I think it --

13 THE COURT: Two being the doorbell video,
14 three being the outside video?

15 MR. WECKEL: I not only think it's 16 (inaudible) objection I think it helps her case, Your 17 Honor.

18 THE COURT: I'm sorry. Say that again, 19 please.

20 MR. WECKEL: I said I don't have an 21 objection. I not only don't have an objection, I 22 think it helps her case. So, yes.

23 THE COURT: All right, then, based on the 24 stipulation of the parties, exhibits -- excuse me, 25 more specifically respondent's Exhibits 2 and 3 will

1 be admitted.

2 (RESPONDENT EXHIBIT NUMBERS 2 AND 3 ARE 3 RECEIVED.)

4 Q. (By Mr. Peterson) Mr. Watson --
5 MR. PETERSON: I'm sorry. We good?

6 THE COURT: Yeah.

7 Q. (By Mr. Peterson) Mr. Watson, did you see 8 the length of the second video that's been marked as 9 Exhibit 3?

10 A. Just have to check that real quick.
11 I've got it as two minutes and 30 seconds.

12 Q. Did you hear Ms. Watson testify when she 13 was on the stand that you stood in front of her car 14 to four to five minutes?

15 A. I did.

16 Q. Is that possible, Mr. Watson?

17 A. No.

18 Q. Did you hear Ms. Watson testify that she 19 was terrified and that you were menacing and angry?

20 A. Yes.

21 Q. Is there anything in that video that you 22 construe as being menacing or angry?

23 A. No.

24 Q. In fact, you were whistling a doofy little 25 song, weren't you?

1 Q. And all the practices. That were during 2 your parent time?

3 A. That were during my parent time.

4 Q. Okay. Was Melinda at the games?

5 A. Yes.

6 Q. Did you have incidents at these games?

7 A. Only with her coming over and sitting by 8 me.

9 Q. So there were no blowups, no complaints, 10 no concerns?

11 A. No. No police reports or anything.

12 Q. You say she would come over and sit by 13 you?

14 A. Yes.

15 Q. Like -- what do you mean by that?

16 A. There was one chair between me and her and 17 that was A.W. so it was me, then A.W. and then her.

18 Q. And how often would Melinda do this?

19 A. Every game.

20 Q. Now, were you typically there first or 21 second?

22 A. First.

23 Q. And so who would approach who?

24 A. She would approach me.

25 MR. PETERSON: May I approach, Your Honor?

1 THE COURT: Yes.

2 MR. PETERSON: I marked this. And I think
3 we're on, what, Exhibit 4.

4 THE COURT: Four, I believe. Two and 5 three have been admitted. One hasn't been proffered.

6 MR. PETERSON: Thank you very much.

7 And if I may, Your Honor, quickly, if I 8 could correct that oversight. I didn't realize I had 9 neglected; I'd like to move for the admission of 10 Exhibit 1 into evidence.

11 THE COURT: Mr. Weckel, any objection to 12 respondent's Exhibit 1 being admitted into evidence?
13 It was the text message conversation -- or rather a 14 text message string from -- allegedly from your 15 client, as previously testified.

16 MR. WECKEL: Court's indulgence, Your 17 Honor, for one second.

18 (Discussion off the record.)

19 MR. WECKEL: No objection, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: All right. Then the Court
21 will note for the record that respondent's exhibits 22 1, 2 and 3 have been admitted now --

23 MR. PETERSON: Your Honor, I want to be 24 clear because Mr. Weckel was talking. We had just 25 moved for the admission of Exhibit Number 1, not

1 A. Correct.

2 Q. Do you know what that screen shot is?

3 A. It's the text version of the exact same 4 thing.

5 Q. Was there any material difference in the 6 content?

7 A. No. It was the exact same question almost 8 word for word.

9 Q. Do you have the original available, if 10 necessary, for inspection?

11 A. I have it on my phone.

12 Q. Okay. But in your opinion, does it 13 meaningfully change the content of the e-mail up 14 above?

15 A. It's the exact same wording.

16 Q. Okay. Thank you.

17 MR. PETERSON: Your Honor, we would move
18 for the admission of Exhibit Number 4.

19 THE COURT: Counsel, any objection?

20 MR. WECKEL: No, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: All right. Respondent's
22 Exhibit 4 is admitted.

23 (RESPONDENT EXHIBIT NUMBER 4 IS RECEIVED.)

24 MR. PETERSON: Okay. Thank you.

25 Q. (By Mr. Peterson) I'm nearly done,
